Making Of The English Patient:

The Making of the English Patient Joan Lane, 2000 This book is a collection of original sources for studying the social history of medicine in England from around 1700 to the end of the 19th century The sources illustrate the main themes in the relationship of medicine to society especially from the patient's viewpoint The extracts from diaries accounts and correspondence include material from record offices and private owners Material is included from all the English counties and London as well as national surveys Topics covered include medical practice and practitioners nurses and midwives patients own accounts of illness diseases and treatments mortality institutions charities and the welfare state Each section has an introduction to the topic followed by the extracts and suggestions for further reading A general introduction discusses the sources where they are to be found recent research and how to interpret the material Making Sense Ralf

Hertel, 2021-07-26 Fiction is fascinating All it provides us with is black letters on white pages yet while we read we do not have the impression that we are merely perceiving abstract characters Instead we see the protagonists before our inner eye and hear their voices Descriptions of sumptuous meals make our mouths water we feel physically repelled by depictions of violence or are aroused by the erotic details of sexual conquests We submerge ourselves in the fictional world that no longer stays on the paper but comes to life in our imagination Reading turns into an out of the body experience or rather an in another body experience for we perceive the portrayed world not only through the protagonist's eyes but also through his ears nose tongue and skin In other words we move through the literary text as if through a virtual reality How does literature achieve this trick How does it turn mere letters into vividly experienced worlds This study argues that techniques of sensuous writing contribute decisively to bringing the text to life in the reader's imagination In detailed interpretations of British novels of the 1980s and 1990s by writers such as John Berger John Banville Salman Rushdie Jeanette Winterson or J M Coetzee it uncovers literary strategies for turning the sensuous experience into words and for conveying it to the reader demonstrating how we make sense in and of literature Both readers interested in the contemporary novel and in the sensuousness of the reading experience will profit from this innovative study that not only analyses the interest of contemporary authors in the senses but also pin points literary entry points for the sensuous force of reading The English Patient (SparkNotes Literature Guide) SparkNotes, 2014-08-12 The English Patient SparkNotes Literature Guide by Michael

Relational Concepts in Medicine ,2020-05-18 Transcultural Medicine B. Qureshi,2012-12-06 WHY WE MUST PRACTISE TRANSCULTURAL MEDICINE Health professionals and GPs should concern themselves with ethnicity religion and culture as much as with the age sex and social class of their patients Transcultural medicine is the knowledge of medical and communication encounters between a doctor or health worker of one ethnic group and a patient of another It embraces the physical psychological and social aspects of care as well as the scientific aspects of culture religion and ethnicity without getting involved in the politics of segregation or integration English general practitioners and health professionals tend to regard everyone as English and to assume that all patients have similar needs Would that it were as simple as that For economic reasons based on supply and demand the mass migration of working populations from the new Commonwealth countries along with their dependent relatives including their parents to Britain took place during one decade the 1960s Broadly speaking the workers were in their thirties and forties and their dependent parents were in their fifties and sixties All these will of course be 30 years older in the 1990s
