Making Of The Representative For Planet 8:

The Making of the Representative for Planet 8 Doris Lessing, 1988 Planet 8 a prosperous world with intelligent vital inhabitants is transformed by an Ice Age a change that causes a critical variation in lifestyle and a drastic reappraisal of the meaning and value of life

The Making of the Representative for Planet 8 Philip Glass, Doris Lessing, 1988 The Making of the Representative for Planet 8 / Philip Glass ; Doris Lessing Philip Glass, Doris Lessing, 1988 Identity in Doris Lessing's Space Fiction David F. Waterman, 2006 In this study of identity in Doris Lessing's space fiction David Waterman devotes a chapter to each of the five novels in the Canopus in Argos Archives series as well as Briefing for a Descent into Hell Memoirs of a Survivor and finally The Reason for It This is an important addition to understanding the works of this prolific author His major argument is that Lessing's space fiction identifies the universal problem society's division into competitive and predatory groups and places it outside the bounds of time and space encouraging a social critique which takes into account our inherited blindness our degenerative disease which must be addressed before genuine progress can be made Lessing's examination of the relationship between individual identity and group identity produces a productive tension that accounts for so much of interest in her work over many years Nowhere is that tension more obvious or more interesting than in the space fiction that David Waterman so ably explores Waterman writes convincingly of Lessing's desire to cut through the performance the received ideas the habits and customs of our daily lives Drawing on a wide range of sources he provides an interdisciplinary reading of the space fiction and maps Lessing's brave exploration of the hierarchical landscapes that so often imprison us Waterman offers a timely reading of Lessing for contemporary readers living in the landscape of globalization Professor Margaret Moan Rowe Purdue University

The Span of Mainstream and Science Fiction Peter Brigg, 2015-09-16 From the 1960s when the advent of what many call the postmodern style made establishing genres more difficult to the present day writers have been incorporating science not only the commonly thought of science and technology but also the soft sciences such as psychology and sociology into what was previously considered mainstream fiction This book examines works by Thomas Pynchon Doris Lessing and others who incorporate science in fiction and exemplify the movement of mainstream fiction writers toward a new genre termed span It also examines works by some science fiction writers who are edging closer to the border of science fiction and slowly over into span This book maps the boundaries of the new span genre of fiction and thus helps define texts that fall outside the realms of mainstream and science fiction Diagrams are included and a bibliography and index

Food, Consumption and the Body in Contemporary Women's Fiction Sarah Sceats, 2000-04-20 This study explores the subtle and complex significance of food and eating in contemporary women's fiction Sarah Sceats reveals how preoccupations with food its consumption and the body are central to the work of writers such as Doris Lessing Angela Carter Margaret Atwood Mich le Roberts and Alice Thomas Ellis Through close analysis of their fiction Sceats examines the multiple metaphors associated with these themes making powerful connections between food and love motherhood sexual desire self identity and social behaviour The activities surrounding food and its consumption or non consumption embrace both the most intimate and the most thoroughly public aspects of our lives The book draws on psychoanalytical feminist and sociological theory to engage with a diverse range of issues including chapters on cannibalism and eating disorders This lively study demonstrates that feeding and eating are not simply fundamental to life but are inseparable from questions of gender power and control Brave New World? Celia Deane-Drummond,2003-11-01

One of the key issues facing us in the next millennium is the ability to manipulate the genetics of living organisms The possibility of manipulating human genetics raises many theological ethical and socio political issues These include specific decisions about whether the technology will be developed how it will be applied and more general questions about the technical manipulation of natural processes From a theological perspective the human genome project not only challenges particular doctrines such as that of creation eschatology and anthropology but also raises particular issues of social justice and medical ethics The purpose of this book is to bring together the collective expertise of theologians scientists and social scientists in order to provide a forum for critique and public debate focused on the human genome project It is hoped that the results presented in this book offer a sophisticated theological and ethical response Postcolonial African Writers Siga Fatima Jagne,Pushpa Naidu Parekh,2012-11-12 This reference book surveys the richness of postcolonial African literature The volume begins with an introductory essay on postcolonial criticism and African writing then presents alphabetically arranged profiles of some 60 writers including Chinua Achebe Nadine Gordimer Bessie Head Doris Lessing Tsitsi Dangarembga Tahbar Ben Jelloun among others Each entry includes a brief biography a discussion of major works and themes that appear in the author s writings an overview of the critical response to the author s work and a bibliography of primary and secondary sources These profiles are written by expert contributors and reflect many different perspectives The volume concludes with a selected general bibliography of the most important critical works on postcolonial African literature

Re-Embroidering the Robe Suzanne Bray,Adrienne E. Gavin,Peter Merchant,2009-10-02 Religious faith myths and legends have always been present in literature However their role has changed over time Since the middle of the nineteenth century with the diminishing role of religion in European society writers with some kind of belief system whether religious or political have tended to use myth in two different ways They have either retold the old familiar myths of the past so that they carry fresh messages relevant to a contemporary audience or created their own new myths as modern vehicles of traditional truths Many writers have combined the two techniques Such is the transforming artistry which the eighteen essays in Re Embroidering the Robe examine the remaking or new minting of myth in literature from 1850 to the present day so that what it embodies and expresses speaks powerfully to the modern reader In widely differing ways therefore all of the texts analysed

Rereading Doris Lessing Claire Sprague, 2014-07-02 According to Sprague doubling in Lessing's novels is a perfect correlative for the complexity and contradiction Lessing perceives as central to the private and collective human experience Her doubles and multiples not only indicate the fracturing or the formation of identity but they also are among the several strategies used to project complex private and societal concerns This study of Lessing's dialectical imagination extends and revises earlier feminist approaches Originally published in 1987 A UNC Press Enduring Edition UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats bringing readers both historical and cultural value

Doris Lessing Margaret Moan Rowe, 1994-10-03 Through close readings of Doris Lessing's novels from The Grass is Singing to The Fifth Child Margaret Moan Rowe maps many of the literary and cultural negotiations that make Doris Lessing both a maverick and a mainstream novelist Examining the pull of paternal and maternal biographical and literary identification in Lessing Rowe relates them to the tensions between the ordinary and the visionary in her fiction

The Poetics of Science Fiction Peter Stockwell, 2014-06-11 The Poetics of Science Fiction uniquely uses the science of linguistics to explore the literary universe of science fiction Developing arguments about specific texts and movements throughout the twentieth century the book is a readable discussion of this most popular of genres It also uses the extreme conditions offered by science fiction to develop new insights into the language of the literary context The discussion ranges from a detailed investigation of new words and metaphors to the exploration of new worlds from pulp science fiction to the genre's literary masterpieces its special effects and poetic expression Speculations and extrapolations throughout the book engage the reader in thought experiments and discussion points with selected further reading making it a useful source book for classroom and seminar

Self-construal in Postcolonial Literature Maria-Ana Tupan, 2024-12-10 Opening with an analysis of the concept of self construal from Ren Descartes and Immanuel Kant to the beginning of the new millennium this collection of essays contributed by academics from India Romania and Bosnia and Herzegovina removes self construction from the field of anthropology relocating the process within the wake of social and political psychology The postcolonial condition is the catalyst of inquiries into collective traumas in the former colonies in parallel with attempts at writing new narratives in the space left blank by metropolitan representations Transnational space is a palimpsest of conflicting discourses often revealing a double consciousness in writers living in the country of origin as well as in migrants A broader and more complex approach to the postcolonial condition than the reductive and politicized one factor analysis has been attempted benefiting from recent theoretical developments trauma studies identity studies studies of the affect political psychology and others Rare Birds Thomas Rain Crowe,2008 Doris Lessing Lorna Sage,2019-10-08 Doris Lessing was one of the most impressive prolific and vital of twentieth century writers Her fiction is obsessed with the workings of cultural change and she radically extended the novel's scope most famously and influentially in The Golden Notebook by questioning the realist tradition she inherited and the wider social beliefs about self sexuality and authority which that tradition symbolized This study originally published in 1983 surveys her epic output from her early African writings to her later experiments with space fiction It traces her struggles to decentre imaginative life and to erase and to redraw the boundaries of our mental maps in favour of values on the margins of the official culture Step Across This Line Salman Rushdie,2002-09-10 From one of the great novelists of our day a vital brilliant new book of essays speeches and articles essential for our times Step Across This Line showcases the other side of one of fiction's most astonishing conjurors On display is Salman Rushdie's incisive thoughtful and generous mind in prose that is as entertaining as it is topical The world is here captured in pieces on a dazzling array of subjects from New York's Amadou Diallo case to the Wizard of Oz from U2 to fifty years of Indian writing from a tribute to Angela Carter to the struggle to film Midnight's Children The title essay was originally delivered at Yale as the 2002 Tanner lecture on human values and examines the changing meaning of frontiers in the modern world moral and metaphorical frontiers as well as physical ones The collection chronicles Rushdie's intellectual journeys but it is also an intimate invitation into his life he explores his relationship to India through a moving diary of his first visit there in over a decade A Dream of Glorious Return Step Across This Line also includes Messages From the Plague Years a historic set of letters articles and reflections on life under the fatwa Gathered together for the first time this is Rushdie's humane intelligent and angry response to a grotesque threat aimed not just at him but at free expression itself Step Across This Line Salman Rushdie's first collection of non fiction in a decade has the same energy imagination and erudition as his astounding novels along with some very strong opinions
