Making Over Ones Self:

Making Men Maud W. Gleason, 2018-06-05 The careers of two popular second century rhetorical virtuosos offer Maud Gleason fascinating insights into the ways ancient Romans constructed masculinity during a time marked by anxiety over manly deportment Declamation was an exhilarating art form for the Greeks and bilingual Romans of the Second Sophistic movement and its best practitioners would travel the empire performing in front of enraptured audiences The mastery of rhetoric marked the transition to manhood for all aristocratic citizens and remained crucial to a man's social standing In treating rhetoric as a process of self presentation in a face to face society Gleason analyzes the deportment and writings of the two Sophists Favorinus a eunuch and Polemo a man who met conventional gender expectations to suggest the ways character and gender were perceived Physiognomical texts of the era show how intently men scrutinized one another for minute signs of gender deviance in such features as gait gesture facial expression and voice Rhetoricians trained to develop these traits in a masculine fashion Examining the successful career of Favorinus whose high pitched voice and florid presentation contrasted sharply with the traditionalist style of Polemo Gleason shows however that ideal masculine behavior was not a monolithic abstraction In a highly accessible study treating the semiotics of deportment and the medical cultural and moral issues surrounding rhetorical activity she explores the possibilities of self presentation in the search for recognition as a speaker and a man

Extending Self-Esteem Theory and Research Timothy J. Owens, Sheldon Stryker, Norman Goodman, 2006-11-02

Self esteem is an academic and popular phenomenon vigorously researched and debated sometimes imbued with magical qualities other times vilified as the bane of the West's preoccupation with self Though thousands of articles have been devoted to the topic and bookshops work to feed the public's appetite for advice on revealing enhancing and maintaining self esteem conflicting claims and findings have placed the field in disarray In a very real sense self esteem is a victim of its own popularity This book seeks to add clarity to a concept earlier examined by such notable self theorists as Morris Rosenberg but eminently worthy of re examination and extension We do this by asking some leading thinkers on self esteem theory measurement and application to assess what we know about self esteem and link it to important aspects of society and the human experience

Speaking the Truth about Oneself Michel Foucault, 2021-10-07 Speaking the Truth about Oneself is composed of lectures that acclaimed French philosopher Michel Foucault delivered in 1982 at the University of Toronto As is characteristic of his later work he is concerned here with the care and cultivation of the self which becomes the central theme of the second and third volumes of his famous History of Sexuality published in French in 1984 the month of his death and which are explored here in a striking and typically illuminating fashion Throughout his career Foucault had always been interested in the question of how constellations of knowledge and power produce and constitute subjects But in the last phase of his life he became especially interested not only in how subjects are constituted by outside forces but in how they constitute themselves In this lecture series and accompanying seminar we find Foucault focused on antiquity starting with classical Greece the early Roman dynasties and concluding with fourth and fifth century Christian monasticism Foucault's claim is that in these periods we see the development of a new kind of act speaking the truth about oneself as the locus of a new form of subjectivity which he deemed important not just for historical reasons but also as something modernity could harness anew or adapt to its own purposes
