Real Options and Corporate Strategy Christian Berner, 2000-03-01 Inhaltsangabe Abstract Every investment for example new facilities new products or strategic partnerships is driven by the pursuit of creating values Major changes are going on in the valuation of investments Although the classic shareholder value concept is still a valuable source for identification of value drivers of strategic management it needs to be extended in terms of its ability to evaluate long term investment choices Far too long capital budgeting has only been considered under aspects of its contribution to an overall added economic value rather than focusing on a firm's resources Recent research emphasized the strategic value of resources leading to formulate the approach of a resource based view of a firm's activities Usually management tries to capture future development with static methods of capital budgeting i.e. future cash flows are discounted with a fixed risk adjusted discount rate However the finding of present values and capitalized values could produce pitfalls in investment decisions Strategic investment decisions are often characterized by a wide range of possibilities to react flexibly to the changing business environment This area of tolerance in investment decisions could not be captured with traditional instruments of investment evaluation In the 1970s the discounted cash flow analysis DCF emerged and proved its practicability This method assumes a now or never approach in undertaking a project Some authors suggest adding the theory of option prices to investment decisions as in the 1970s and the 1980s developments in the valuation of capital investment opportunities based on option pricing revolutionized capital budgeting Option pricing allows adaptation and revision of future decisions in order to capture managerial flexibility and to finally capitalize on any possible future development To incorporate these real options means to limit losses and offers a vital contribution to long term corporate success especially in those marketplaces characterized by uncertainty and rapid change This method also explains the value of waiting for the initial project and considers its value in comparison to the opportunity costs of waiting These costs are dictated by the behavior of competitors and loss of cash flow streams from the project Incorporating this method could possibly lead to a better understanding of the importance of resource allocation the value of strategic investments and

Corporate Strategy in the Age of Responsibility Peter McManners,2016-05-13 As the era of ever expanding markets and ample resources ends governments and business will have to behave differently The world is facing weak economic growth limits to affordable resources and increasing concerns about environmental consequences During the boom times governments championed de regulation and business responded by adopting an anything goes attitude In these straitened times strategic analysis has to engage with the challenges that society faces to create resilient corporations fit for the 21st century In Corporate Strategy in the Age of Responsibility Peter McManners who has for nine years run strategy workshops on the Henley MBA focusing on the global business environment sets about providing a strategic framework for navigating the new economic environment Chief Sustainability Officers CSOs now exist but they struggle to find the strategic rationale for the improvements they champion The author argues that their good intentions often lack traction partly because others in management don t get it but also because they are not ambitious enough The book is not about preaching semi charitable behaviour or how to enhance the reputation of the corporation instead it is about surviving and thriving in a challenging and changing environment A corporate audience familiar with strategy books will relate to this book but will find it steers them towards radically new strategic thinking suitable for a turbulent period of transition Corporate Strategy Robert Dransfield,2001 Part of a series which aims to reflect the changing face of the economic climate and business world The books contain the latest information and thinking in their areas and are specifically focused to the needs of AS A level and first year undergraduate students Science and Corporate Strategy David A.
