New Industrial Society:

The New Industrial Society Bernard A. Weisberger, 1968 The New Industrial State John Kenneth Galbraith, 2007-04-29 With searing wit and incisive commentary John Kenneth Galbraith redefined America's perception of itself in The New Industrial State one of his landmark works. The United States is no longer a free enterprise society Galbraith argues but a structured state controlled by the largest companies. Advertising is the means by which these companies manage demand and create consumer need where none previously existed. Multinational corporations are the continuation of this power system on an international level. The goal of these companies is not the betterment of society but immortality through an uninterrupted stream of earnings. First published in 1967 The New Industrial State continues to resonate today.

The New Industrial State John Kenneth Galbraith, 1971 Detailed examination of changes in modern economic life due to the rise of technology of specialized manpower and concentration of power in large business organization. For other editions see Author Catalog.

Anthology of Noonomy: Fourth Technological Revolution and Its Economic, Social and Humanitarian Consequences, 2022-08-08 Anthology of Noonomy Fourth Technological Revolution and Its Economic Social and Humanitarian Consequences prepared by the international team of authors representing leading universities from different parts of the world reveals various aspects of the theory of noonomy developed by Professor S Bodrunov. A positive assessment is given to the key provisions of this theory: the transition to knowledge intensive production, the gradual socialisation of economy, the diffusion of property, the progress of solidarity relations, the removal of simulative needs and the progress of a culture. Much attention is paid to the global context of currently undergoing technological and socio-economic transformations, issues of political economic and philosophical understanding of the theory of noonomy provisions. Contributors are Sergey Glazyev, James Kenneth Galbraith, Oleg Smolin, Enfu Cheng, Siyang Gao, Alan Freeman, Andrey Kolganov, Jes's Pastor, Garc'a Brigos, Anatoly Porokhovskiy, Radhika Desai and Leo Gabriel.

Structural Change: The Challenge to Industrial Societies Herbert Hax, Willy Kraus, Kiyoshi Tsuchiya, 2013-03-09 The highly developed industrial countries today have to face the challenge of accelerated structural change. The problems arising from this process are tackled in very different ways. In the public discussion the different approaches of Japan on the one side and of Western European countries on the other have received considerable attention. Structural change in its economic, social and political aspects has been the subject of the 8th German Japanese Seminar on Economics and Social Sciences held at Cologne from the 24th to the 27th of September 1984. The tradition of German Japanese Seminars on Economics and Social Sciences goes back to 1966 when the first meeting was held at Tokyo. Among the first participants were Dr Hiromi Arizawa, Dr Kazuo Okochi, both professors at the University of Tokyo and Dr Karl Hax, professor at Frankfurt University. The objective of all seminars which have been held since has been the analysis of economic and social problems of immediate interest in both countries. The records of former seminars which have been published partly in Japanese partly in German throw light upon the shift of emphasis toward new problems which took place during a period of 18 years

Noonomy Sergey Bodrunov, 2024-11-26 In this visionary work the author suggests an original novel concept the general theory of a new industrial society of the second generation that evolves toward a new quality of public existence noonomy The volume explores the effect of modern technological shifts on human society The author shows that technologies are about to undergo qualitative changes that will create new opportunities for personal development and the satisfaction of wants and simultaneously engender risks associated with growth opportunities of human interference with nature and technogenic stress on the environment Based on the study of cutting edge technologies and resulting socioeconomic shifts Bodrunov makes the conclusion about the upcoming civilizational crisis The crisis can be overcome through the formation of a new industrial society of the second generation reliant on knowledge intensive material production and gradual removal of humans from immediate material production processes These two trends can fully develop only subject to the transition from the current socioeconomic formation to a non economic one the noonomy The book determines the limits of humans as rational self interested agents who make decisions to maximize their own interests who remain the key figure of mainstream economy In order to move beyond these limits and prevent self destruction of human civilization the author proposes a new methodology for the organization of socioeconomic knowledge noonomy which uses technological progress to introduce a rational core into the management of the chaotically developing economy something which the author posits we have failed to accomplish so far due to cultural regression and moral decay Systematically substantiating his theory by drawing on a wide range of sources and extensive empirical data Dr Bodrunov incorporates various components of rational socio philosophical political and economic analysis with institutional theory and sociocultural analysis and focuses on the geopolitical economy approach to the issue under consideration The volume begins with a discussion of the basic principles of the research method used in the book along with the an explanation of how the key role of material production constitutes an essential principle that underlies the approach to explaining social development processes The author emphasizes an essential and ever increasing role of knowledge in the development of production technologies that occurs through a change in technological modes and is accompanied by changes in the structure of manufactured products and evolution in the level of saturation and structure of human wants The volume then assesses the first steps towards transitioning to a new stage of industrial production a new type of knowledge intensive material production that manufactures knowledge intensive products The volume considers the risks associated with the unchecked development of new technologies which while expanding opportunities for the satisfaction of human wants also increases environmental stress and requires the need for finding occupations for people who used to be employed in dying professions The volume examines how humans withdrawal from immediate production and the disappearance of economic relations serves as a non economic way of regulating production activities of an autonomous technosphere by steering its development in accordance with personal development needs Introducing the English speaking audience to a wide array of Russian twentieth century authors that are little known abroad and whose studies on technological economic and sociocultural transformations hold truly global significance this eye opening book will be of interest to those teaching and interested in the social philosophy of development of the human civilization and strategy of social and economic development

Strategizing Societal Transformation Vladimir L. Kvint, Sergey D. Bodrunov, 2022-11-11 This book is dualistic in its nature it seeks to combine two approaches to the analysis and assessment of societal development prospects and to strengthen the capacity of each The book describes the strategic development of regional economies as well as worldwide trends The theory and methodology of strategy should extend much further and deeper than what is obvious to everyone Strategy is aimed at the effective movement of the object of strategizing to the reality that does not exist and will only begin to form within a certain period of time which is determined by long term prospects One approach has at its core managing the information and technological development of society its social and economic transformation through developing and implementing a particular strategy with a concept or doctrine of the planned guidelines as its first stage Strategizing the information technological transformation of society is proved to be most effective when it covers long term development periods which will lead to significant and even fundamental changes in the values and priorities of socio economic development Another approach described in this volume which is implemented in conjunction with strategizing is connected to the conceptual understanding of long term development The concept of noonomy represents a complex theory of transformation based on technological change and the resulting shifts in social organization It demonstrates not only trends but also qualitative social shifts to which these transformations lead In this way the approach put forward in the theory of noonomy makes it possible to anticipate and evaluate distant horizons of social development and to grasp the transitions from one stage to the next Employing the concept of noonomy in the processes of strategy is a prognostic phase immediately preceding the processes of strategy and creating a reference point for them This book represents the unique strategy concepts V L Kvint and noonomy S D Bodrunov have been brought together The idea of uniting the authors views on the problems of civilizational development has a common scientific platform the definition of long term goals and the choice of economic and strategic tools to achieve them This book summarizes the authors main approaches to the issues at hand to facilitate the applied problem set by the authors which is to demonstrate the productivity of synthesizing these approaches to the study of societal development patterns for subsequent use in their theoretical and practical implementation

Tendencies and Tensions of the Information Age Jorge Reina Schement, 2018-04-24 The development of technology and the hunger for information has caused a wave of change in daily life in America Nearly every American s environment now consists of cable television video cassette players answering machines fax machines and personal computers Schement and Curtis argue that the information age has evolved gradually throughout the twentieth century National focus on the production and distribution of information stems directly from the organizing principles and realities of the market system not from a revolution sparked by the invention of the computer Now available in paperback Tendencies and Tensions of the Information Age brings together findings from many disciplines including classical studies etymology political sociology and macroeconomics This valuable resource will be enjoyed by sociologists historians and scholars of communication and information studies Sociology Rosemary L. Hopcroft, 2016-01-08 In an era of human genome research environmental challenges new reproductive technologies and more students can benefit from an introductory sociology text that is a biologically informed This innovative text integrates mainstream sociological research in all areas of sociology with a scientifically informed model of an evolved biological human actor This text allows students to better understand their emotional social and institutional worlds It also illustrates how biological understanding naturally enhances the sociological approach This grounding of sociology in a biosocial conception of the individual actor is coupled with a comparative approach as human biology is universal and often reveals itself as variations on themes across human cultures Tables Figures Photos and the author's concise and remarkably lively style make this a truly enjoyable book to read and teach Across The Gap Jean M. Morris, 2016-11-07 An account of how in the wake of The Industrial Revolution a little known corner of rural England was transformed into an area of dense industrial activity The arrival of the alkali trade in Widnes and the subsequent explosion in population changed the social structure of the area and created great divisions in society The indigenous communities who had lived and worked in time honoured rural occupations for generations were swallowed up by a growing workforce of migrant workers from all corners of Britain and Ireland As a consequence the social fabric of the area was irrevocably altered and the devastating effect of industry on the landscape and environment created huge problems This book allows us to see how a new unskilled workforce struggled to adapt to factory disciplines and routines as well as a new urban way of living
