Sorokin, 2015-10-22 The Ways and Power of Love was originally published in 1954 when Pitirim Sorokin was in the twilight of his career and leading the Harvard Research Center in Creative Altruism His elaborate scientific analysis of love with regard to its higher and lower forms its causes and effects its human and cosmic significance and its core features constitutes the first study on this topic in world literature to date Sorokin was the one absolutely essential twentieth century pioneer in the study of love at the interface of science and religion Bringing The Ways and Power of Love back into print allows a new generation of readers to appreciate Sorokin's genius and to move forward with his endeavor at a time when civilization itself continues to be threatened by a marked inability to live up to the ideal of love for all humankind It is certainly right to hope with Sorokin that progress in knowledge about love can move humanity forward to a better future Turning the sciences toward the study of love is no easy task but it can and must be done Guide to Reprints, 2009 Return from Exile Ashis Nandy, 1998 This volume brings together three significant works of Ashis Nandy Alternative Sciences The Illegitimacy of Nationalism and The Savage Freud It is essential reading for social and political scientists and all those interested in the complexities of Indian politics and culture Understanding and Teaching the Intuitive Mind Bruce Torff, Robert J. Rueckert, 1983-05-18 Foundations for Tracing Intuition Andreas Glöckner, Cilia Witteman, 2009-12-15 The study of intuition and its relation to thoughtful reasoning is a burgeoning research topic in psychology and beyond While the area has the potential to radically transform our conception of the mind and decision making the procedures used for establishing empirical conclusions have often been vaguely formulated and obscure This book fills a gap in the field by providing a range of methods for exploring intuition experimentally and thereby enhancing the collection of new data The book begins by summarizing current challenges in the study of intuition and gives a new foundation for intuition research Going beyond classical dual process models a new scheme is introduced to classify the different types of processes usually collected under the label of intuition These new classifications range from learning approaches to complex cue integration models The book then goes on to describe the wide variety of behavioural methods available to investigate these processes including information search tracing think aloud protocols maximum likelihood methods eye tracking and physiological and non physiological measures of affective responses It also discusses paradigms to investigate implicit associations and causal intuitions video based approaches to expert research methods to induce specific decision modes as well as questionnaires to assess individual preferences for intuition or deliberation By uniquely providing the basis for exploring intuition by introducing the different methods and their applications in a step by step manner this text is an invaluable reference for individual research projects It is also very useful as a course book for advanced decision making courses and could inspire experimental explorations of intuition in psychology behavioural economics empirical legal studies and clinical decision making
