This text focuses student learning on the key communication competencies recommended by the National Communication Association. With applied examples and a vibrant and engaging design, this text covers all the expected topics in an introductory course: foundations of communication, interpersonal communication, small group communication, and public speaking, plus a special appendix on interviewing. Scenarios begin each chapter with a problem to which students can relate and then solve as they learn about the concepts discussed in each chapter. A concentrated focus on careers in communication highlighted in a two-page spread near the end of each chapter brings home the relevance of communication outside the classroom and helps students learn more about how studying communication can help them throughout their lives. Additional emphasis on topics such as ethics, culture, gender, and technology is found throughout the text. Public Speaking Steven A. Beebe, Susan J. Beebe, 2003. This book is written to be the primary text for a college-level public speaking course. The authors offer strategies that are anchored in ethical principles to assist speakers in articulating a message that connects with their audience. They emphasize that an effective speaker is an ethical speaker. Audience-centered speakers articulate truthful messages that give audience members free choice in responding to a message while also using effective means of ensuring message clarity and credibility. Pref. Faculty Service-Learning Guidebook Christine M. Cress, Stephanie T. Stokamer, Thomas J. Van Cleave, Joyce P. Kaufman, 2023-07-03. This is a practical guide to designing teaching and coordinating service learning courses and for developing reciprocal community partnerships and community-based research through a lens of equity that addresses the endemic racial, social, economic, and environmental disparities across society. The text provides a comprehensive framework for developing both in-person and on-line service learning with a chapter on virtual delivery of courses that integrates the principles and practices described throughout the book. The authors uniquely integrate the how-to of conducting service learning with the theoretical foundations to enact effective, equitable, and inclusive community engagement. Given this moment of enormous social inequality and divisiveness, the authors offer a new definition and set of educational principles that they characterize as Equity-Centered Community

Engagement Excellence These principles serve to guide academic and community engagement that is democratic recognizes the voice and expertise of community partners addresses the power imbalances between communities and academic institutions and develops an educational experience that is potentially transformative and promotes civic responsibility Informed by the literature of critical service learning critical race theory intercultural communication theory and social constructivism this book attempts to deconstruct the assumption of the preeminence of academic knowledge to reconstruct a new operational paradigm of equity centeredness that validates community capacity to guide faculty in their redesign of service learning curriculum activities collaborations and scholarship It is based on the principles of Student Agency demonstrated as enhanced skills knowledge and motivation Community Efficacy recognition of community assets and capacity building Scholarly Advocacy leveraging evidence based research based for equity centered learning serving and social justice The authors offer examples of syllabi lessons and assignments reflection questions evaluation rubrics as well as an array of teaching tips that illustrate strategies for use in the classroom and in the field The book is addressed to faculty embarking on service learning and to seasoned scholar practitioners looking for innovative ideas as well as to campus administrators who coordinate community outreach or college student volunteer services offering guidance on leveraging resources and fiscal support from external stakeholders It is also designed to serve as a resource for professional development workshops and faculty scholar learning communities It offers a rich compendium of ideas and examples from which faculty and practitioners can select exercises and elements to incorporate or adapt for their courses whether designing short term engagements or extended service learning programs

Learning Through Serving Christine M. Cress, Peter J. Collier, Vicki L. Reitenauer, 2023-07-03 This substantially expanded new edition of this widely used and acclaimed text maintains the objectives and tenets of the first It is designed to help students understand and reflect on their community service experiences both as individuals and as citizens of communities in need of their compassionate expertise It is designed to assist faculty in facilitating student development of compassionate expertise through the context of service in applying disciplinary knowledge to community issues and challenges In sum the book is about how to make academic sense of civic service in preparing for roles as future citizen leaders Each chapter has been developed to be read and reviewed in sequence over the term of a service learning course Students in a semester course might read just one chapter each week while those in a quarter term course might need to read one to two chapters per week The chapters are intentionally short averaging 8 to 14 pages so they do not interfere with other course content reading This edition presents four new chapters on Mentoring Leadership Becoming a Change Agent and Short Term Immersive and Global Service Learning experiences The authors have also revised the original chapters to more fully address issues of social justice privilege power diversity intercultural communication and technology have added more disciplinary examples incorporated additional academic content for understanding service learning issues e g attribution theory and cover issues related to students with disabilities and
