Nonacademic Writing Ann Hill Duin,Craig J. Hansen,2013-11-05 In this volume methodological cultural technological and political boundaries felt by writers are analyzed translated and challenged in a way that will appeal to researchers theorists graduate students instructors and managerial audiences Instead of extracting rules from previous research the contributors working from multidisciplinary perspectives describe and analyze the social and technological contexts surrounding nonacademic writing Their essays present a formative rather than summative outlook toward future research on nonacademic writing Collectively these chapters articulate a unique perspective toward nonacademic writing that considers The centrality of emerging communications technologies in nonacademic writing research and the need for a socio technological perspective New technologies reshape the concept of text and significantly impact the writing process and written products in nonacademic settings The relationship between the academy and the workplace A number of chapters challenge us sometimes from opposing perspectives to scrutinize our role as writing educators in preparing students for the workplace Should we support the interests of corporate employers or should we resist those interests Should we enculturate students in workplace writing practices by placing them in these environments or should we examine the tacit knowledge gained by workplace professionals and deliver this via classroom instruction New theory new research agendas Contributors from diverse fields offer new theoretical lenses or use established lenses in innovative ways expanding the agenda for nonacademic writing research This volume represents the vision the social landscape demands for research and pedagogy in nonacademic writing   Resisting Intellectual Property Debora J. Halbert,2006-02-01 Over the past decade the scope of copyright and patent law has grown significantly strengthening property rights even when such rights seem to infringe upon other more basic priorities This book investigates the ways in which activists scholars and communities are resisting the expansion of copyright and patent law in the information age Debora J Halbert explores how an alternative framework for understanding intellectual property including about how we ought to think about the issues the development of social movements around specific issues and civil disobedience has developed Each chapter in the book discusses how resistance is developing in relation to a particular copyright or patent issue such as access to patented medication access to copyrighted information and music via the Internet the patenting of genetic material This controversial book examines the ways in which the idea of intellectual property is being re thought by the victims of an over expansive legal system It will appeal to students and researchers from a range of disciplines from law and political science to computer science with an interest in intellectual property   Shareware for Library Applications Alan R.
