How emerging adults broadly referring to those aged from 18 to 29 years old fare in civic engagement as compared with other adults is the focus of the present work The work takes civic engagement to comprise prosociality in civil society sustaining social institutions and challenging institutions Delineating a theoretical framework based on voluntaristic theory the work expects to find differences in civic engagement due to the voluntaristic mechanisms of power realization utilitarian optimization normative conformity and idealistic consistency maintenance in the emerging adult as compared with the other Using survey data from 25 878 Chinese adults in Hong Kong the work illustrates that the emerging adult is higher than is the other in challenging social institutions notably in terms radicalism and occupying protest Moreover the emerging adult is less prosocial in terms in community participation Meanwhile the emerging adult is not consistently different from the other in sustaining social institutions The findings are crucial given the control various background characteristics including age education marriage and employment These findings are therefore useful for illustrating social forces postulated in voluntaristic theory for explaining civic engagement Global Governance in the Age of the Anthropocene Markus Fraundorfer, 2022-01-04 Why has global governance largely failed to effectively tackle some of the most pressing global environmental challenges of our time What are the obstacles to effective global and planetary problem solving And which solutions and responses have global governance actors come up with to confront these challenges This textbook teases out the tragic entanglements between dominant global governance dynamics and the global environmental challenges of the Anthropocene showing how international and global cooperation mechanisms that evolved over the last two hundred years are deeply implicated in exacerbating many of today's global environmental challenges The book focuses on several global environmental challenges which are intrinsically interconnected threatening to destabilise the entire Earth system with serious consequences for human societies across the world These global environmental challenges include infectious disease outbreaks global food production processes the pollution of freshwater resources energy consumption patterns deforestation and CO2 emissions At the same time the book also presents several alternative governance examples based on more democratic citizen based and holistic approaches to the global climate crisis which point the way towards a new understanding of global governance in the age of the Anthropocene This textbook is for undergraduate and postgraduate students of global governance environmental politics and international relations The Debates of the Constitutional Convention of the State of Maryland Maryland. Human Rights Literacies Cornelia Roux, Anne Becker, 2018-12-29 This book adds impetus to the nexus between human rights human rights education and material reality The dissonance between these aspects is of growing concern for most human rights educators in various social contexts The first part of the book opens up new discourses and presents new ontologies and epistemologies from scholars in human rights human rights education and human rights literacies to critique and or justify the understandings of human rights complex applications Today's rapidly changing social contexts and new languages attempting to understand ongoing dehumanization and violations put enormous pressure on higher education educators individuals working in social sciences policy makers and scholars engaged in curricula making

The second part demonstrates how global interactions between citizens from different countries with diverse understandings of human rights from developed and developing democracies question the link between human rights and its exclusive Western philosophies. Continuing inhumane actions around the globe reflect the failure of human rights law and human rights education in schools, higher education and society at large. The book shows that human rights education is no longer a blueprint for understanding human rights and its universal or contextual values presented for multicomplex societies. The final chapters argue for new ontologies and epistemologies of human rights, human rights education and human rights literacies to open up difficult conversations and to give space to dissonant and disruptive discourses. The many opportunities for human rights education and literacies lies in these conversations. Soviet Life, 1972
