Reports of Cases, Argued and Determined in the Supreme Court of Errors of the State of Connecticut Connecticut. Supreme Court of Errors, 1859 Reports of Cases Argued and Determined in the Superior Court of the City of New York, 1868 Plots and Proposals Karen Tracey, 2000 Boy meets girl Boy proposes to girl Girl refuses proposal Then what This provocative scenario provides the frame for a significant countertradition in popular nineteenth century women's novels: the double proposal plot in which the heroine rejects and later accepts proposals from the same suitor. Exploring the American wing of this movement through the novels of Carolyn Hentz, Augusta Evans, Laura J. Curtis Bullard, E. D. E. N. Southworth and Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Karen Tracey investigates how each of these writers is constrained by her historical circumstances and how she uses her fiction to critique those circumstances. Pioneered in Britain by Jane Austen, Charlotte Brontë and Elizabeth Barrett Browning, the double proposal plot dislodges the myth of Mr Right and questions the all-powerful notions of true love and happily ever after. When the heroine rejects her suitor's initial proposal, she opens up the possibility of renegotiating the terms of the relationship and exploring alternative roles. By considering two possible marriages between the same set of partners, the double proposal plot interrogates the role of middle class women in courtship and in public life, as well as the quality of married life and the influence a woman potentially brings to it. Tracey charts the genre's evolution from novels that seek answers within renegotiated marriages to those that challenge the efficacy of marriage itself. Reconstructing some of the cultural circumstances that would have influenced the writing, publishing and reading of the novels, Plots and Proposals examines how changing notions of love and romance both inform and are critiqued by this renegade fiction. The Weekly Reporter, 1864 Albany Law Journal, 1890 Rebel Women Jane Eldridge Miller, 1997-03-15 With the rise of women's suffrage, challenges to marriage and divorce laws and expanding opportunities for education and employment for women, the early years of the twentieth century were a time of social revolution. Examining British novels written in 1890-1914, Jane Eldridge Miller demonstrates how these social, legal and economic changes rendered the traditional narratives of romantic desire and marital closure inadequate, forcing Edwardian novelists to counter the limitations and ideological implications of those narratives with innovative strategies. The original and provocative novels that resulted depict the experiences of modern women with unprecedented variety, specificity and frankness. Rebel Women is a major re-evaluation of Edwardian fiction and a significant contribution to literary history and criticism. Miller's is the best account we have not only of Edwardian women novelists but of early 20th century women novelists: the measure of her achievement is that the distinction no longer seems workable. David Trotter The London Review of Books The Girlhood

She's also not expecting all the secrets Lunar Falls is hiding. Secrets that could destroy everything she ever believed was true about her own heritage and the family she left back home. Gabe isn't ready for Carly when she blows into town. That woman has the power to bring him a man born and raised to be Grand Alpha to his knees. And she's human. That simple fact alone makes her dangerous to Gabe's position within the pack. But the fact that he can't seem to stay away from her tells him that this woman is the one. Human or not, she's his mate. Now Gabe has to find a way to make their bonding complete without sparking a civil war among his people.
