Art and Work Angela E. Davis, 1995 It is also a history of a type of work that was new during this period The mechanized reproduction of art works in the nineteenth century meant that artists found themselves within an industrial atmosphere similar to that of other workers This history traces the beginning of that process in England follows its transference to Canada and demonstrates how illustrators engravers photo engravers and lithographers became part of an increasingly commercially oriented industry. It was an industry of major importance in the fields of printing and new forms of advertising but it was also an industry that led to a change in status for the members of its work force who considered themselves to be artists. Nature's Metropolis: Chicago and the Great West William Cronon, 2009-11-02 A Finalist for the Pulitzer Prize and Winner of the Bancroft Prize. No one has written a better book about a city. Nature's Metropolis is elegant testimony to the proposition that economic, urban, environmental, and business history can be as graceful, powerful, and fascinating as a novel. Kenneth T. Jackson, Boston Globe. A London Bibliography of the Social Sciences, 1931 Vols 1-4 include material to June 1, 1929. Readings in Canadian History: Post-Confederation Donald B. Smith, 2002. Careless at Work J.M.S. Careless, 1996-08-09. This sampling of the work of J.M.S. Careless in the area of Canadian historical studies was selected by the eminent scholar himself and represents much of his finest work. The collection spans the years from 1940 to 1990 in the long and distinguished career of one of Canada's best known historians. In Careless's own words, "History is dated. Its very claim is that the past does not fade into nothing but continues to matter whether or not the purely present-minded are able to recognize that basic fact." These essays cover the main lines of Careless's career in Canadian scholarship. The collection is divided into four general subject areas, each covering a main preoccupation in a distinguished career of over forty years. The first section concentrates on the earliest theme in his writing, George Brown and his times. The second centres on exploring various aspects of frontierism and metropolitanism in Canadian history. The third part deals with cities and regions, focusing particularly on the West and nineteenth-century Ontario. The final section picks up the threads of other themes, including limited identities, Canada and multiculturalism. Crime and Deviance in Canada Chris McCormick, Christopher Ray McCormick, Len Green, 2005. This unique and timely collection brings together 24 of the very best and most controversial readings on the history of crime, deviance, and criminal justice in Canada. Divided into five sections, the first part of Crime and Deviance examines developing issues in crime and punishment, while the second part introduces key aspects of a working criminal justice system. Policing ethnicity is the focus of section three, which includes articles on the relocation phenomenon and the Africville study, as well as Ontario Aboriginal women confronting the criminal justice system, 1920-1960. Similarly, regulating gender and sexuality, section four examines moral reform in English Canada, 1885-1925, and anti-homosexual campaigns in the Canadian Civil Service in the mid-20th century. The final section profiles the moral regulation of behaviour. Articles in this section include non-medical opiate use and control policies in Canada, 1870-1970, as well as moral fervour and the evolution of Canada's prostitution laws, 1867-1917. Power relations is a very strong unifying theme that is relations of gender, social class, ethnicity, and age regulation of sexuality. We can trace these relations of power and how they link to the definition of crime in society. Canada's top criminologists and social critics are included in this special collection. This impressive list includes Russell Smandych, Rick Linden, Constance Backhouse, Helen Boritch, John Hagan, Carolyn Strange, Tina Loo, Joan Sangster, Mariana
