Feature Extraction, Construction and Selection Huan Liu, Hiroshi Motoda, 2012-12-06. There is broad interest in feature extraction, construction, and selection among practitioners from statistics, pattern recognition, and data mining to machine learning. Data preprocessing is an essential step in the knowledge discovery process for real world applications. This book compiles contributions from many leading and active researchers in this growing field and paints a picture of the state of art techniques that can boost the capabilities of many existing data mining tools. The objective of this collection is to increase the awareness of the data mining community about the research of feature extraction, construction, and selection, which are currently conducted mainly in isolation. This book is part of our endeavor to produce a contemporary overview of modern solutions to create synergy among these seemingly different branches and to pave the way for developing meta systems and novel approaches. Even with today's advanced computer technologies, discovering knowledge from data can still be fiendishly hard due to the characteristics of the computer generated data. Feature extraction, construction, and selection are a set of techniques that transform and simplify data so as to make data mining tasks easier. Feature construction and selection can be viewed as two sides of the representation problem.

Entrepreneurship and the Market Process David A Harper, 2002-01-08. Entrepreneurship is central to the market process and yet most theories of it fail to tackle the problem of how economic agents learn from their experience. This book redresses this by systematically applying the ideas of Karl Popper. It treats the entrepreneur as a theorist who develops conjectures which are then tested by exposure to the market in an effort to eliminate errors. This is a critical aspect of the development of new ventures as most entrepreneurial ideas turn out to be mistakes at least in their original form.
