Shankar,Bernard Cova,Robert Kozinets,2012-06-25 Marketing and consumer research has traditionally conceptualized consumers as individuals who exercise choice in the marketplace as individuals not as a class or a group However an important new perspective is now emerging that rejects the individualistic view and focuses on the reality that human life is essentially social and that who we are is an inherently social phenomenon It is the tribes the many little groups we belong to that are fundamental to our experience of life Tribal Marketing shows that it is not individual consumption of products that defines our lives but rather that this activity actually facilitates meaningful social relationships The social links social relationships are more important than the things brands etc The aim of this book is therefore to offer a systematic overview of the area that has been defined as cultures of consumption consumption microcultures brand cultures brand tribes and brand communities It is through these that students of marketing and marketing practitioners can begin to genuinely understand the real drivers of consumer behaviour It will be essential to everyone who needs to understand the new paradigm in consumer research brand management and communications management The Cut of His Coat Brent

Shannon,2006-08-22 The English middle class in the late nineteenth century enjoyed an increase in the availability and variety of material goods With that the visual markers of class membership and manly behavior underwent a radical change In The Cut of His Coat Men Dress and Consumer Culture in Britain 1860-1914 Brent Shannon examines familiar novels by authors such as George Eliot Anthony Trollope Thomas Hughes and H G Wells as well as previously unexamined etiquette manuals period advertisements and fashion monthlies to trace how new ideologies emerged as mass produced clothes sartorial markers and consumer culture began to change While Victorian literature traditionally portrayed women as having sole control of class representations through dress and manners Shannon argues that middle class men participated vigorously in fashion Public displays of their newly acquired mannerisms hairstyles clothing and consumer goods redefined masculinity and class status for the Victorian era and beyond The Cut of His Coat probes the Victorian disavowal of men s interest in fashion and shopping to recover men s significant role in the representation of class through self presentation and consumer practices
