Mexican Suite A History Of Photography In Mexico:

Mexican Suite Olivier Debroise, 2001-03-15 Now this publication is available in English as Mexican Suite Olivier Debroise and Stella de Sa Rego have revised this edition to include more current material and explanatory notes for an audience less familiar with Mexican history They have also eliminated some of the general history of photography and added more of the early history of photography in Mexico as well as many new previously unpublished images The book is organized both chronologically and thematically which allows viewer readers to follow the evolution of major photographic genres and styles Debroise also examines the role of photography in the development of modern Mexico and the influence of prominent foreign photographers such as Edward Weston Tina Modotti and Henri Cartier Bresson Photographing the Mexican Revolution John Mraz, 2012-04-18 The Mexican Revolution of 1910-1920 is among the world's most visually documented revolutions Coinciding with the birth of filmmaking and the increased mobility offered by the reflex camera it received extraordinary coverage by photographers and cineastes commercial and amateur national and international Many images of the Revolution remain iconic to this day Francisco Villa galloping toward the camera Villa lolling in the presidential chair next to Emiliano Zapata and Zapata standing stolidly in charro raiment with a carbine in one hand and the other hand on a sword to mention only a few But the identities of those who created the thousands of extant images of the Mexican Revolution and what their purposes were remain a huge puzzle because photographers constantly plagiarized each other's images In this pathfinding book acclaimed photography historian John Mraz carries out a monumental analysis of photographs produced during the Mexican Revolution focusing primarily on those made by Mexicans in order to discover who took the images and why to what ends with what intentions and for whom He explores how photographers expressed their commitments visually what aesthetic strategies they employed and which identifications and identities they forged Mraz demonstrates that contrary to the myth that Agustín Vctor Casasola was the photographer of the Revolution there were many who covered the long civil war including women He shows that specific photographers can even be linked to the contending forces and reveals a pattern of commitment that has been little commented upon in previous studies and completely unexplored in the photography of other revolutions The Other Fridas Luciana Namorato, João Nemi

Neto, Debora Thome, 2024-12-20 The Other Fridas The Lives and Works of Latin American Women Artists explores the lives of prominent and lesser known artists from a dozen different countries and seeks to understand their artistic contributions and their complex lives Frida Kahlo is one of the most recognizable women artists of the Western world and an icon of feminism Yet Latin America has produced many other women artists who like Kahlo challenged conventions of their day transgressed gender stereotypes and significantly contributed to cultural and artistic realms Most have been overshadowed by their male counterparts and while some have been recognized in their home countries the vast majority have remained in obscurity at home and abroad This collection brings together sixteen essays and features such artists as Chilean composer Violeta Parra

Cuban painter Belkis Ayón nineteenth century Portuguese Brazilian actress Maria Velluti Puerto Rican painter and sculptor Luisa Gigel Brunet and many more This book celebrates the lives and creativity of these underrecognized artists and the contributions that they have made towards Latin American art Nacho Lopez, Mexican Photographer John Mraz,2003

Annotation Photographer Nacho Lopez was Mexico's Eugene Smith fusing social commitment with searing imagery to dramatize the plight of the helpless the poor and the marginalized in the pages of glossy illustrated magazines Even today Lopez's photographs forcefully belie the picturesque exoticism that is invariably presented as the essence of Mexico In Nacho Lopez Mexican Photographer John Mraz offers the first full length study in English of this influential photojournalist and provides a close visual analysis of more than fifty of Lopez's most important photographs Mraz first sets Lopez's work in the historical and cultural context of the authoritarian presidentialism that characterized Mexican politics in the 1950s the cult of wealth and celebrity promoted by Mexico's professional photographers and the government's attempts to modernize and industrialize Mexico at almost any cost Mraz skillfully explores the implications of Lopez's imagery in this setting the extent to which his photographs might constitute further victimization of his downtrodden subjects the relationship between them and the middle class readers of the magazines for which Lopez worked and the success with which his photographs challenged Mexico's economic and political structures Mraz contrasts the photos Lopez took with those that were selected by his editors for publication He also compares Lopez's images with his theories about documentary photography and considers Lopez's photographs alongside the work of Robert Capa Dorothea Lange Henri Cartier Bresson and Sebastiao Salgado Lopez's imagery is further analyzed in relation to the Mexican Golden Age cinema inspired by Sergei Eisenstein the pioneering digital imagery of Pedro Meyer and the work of Manuel Alvarez Bravo who Mraz provocatively argues was the first Mexican photographer to take an anti picturesque stance The definitive English language assessment of Nacho Lopez

History and Modern Media John Mraz, 2021-04-15 In History and Modern Media John Mraz largely focuses on Mexican photography and his innovative methodology that examines historical photographs by employing the concepts of genre and function He developed this method in extensive work on photojournalism it is tested here through examining two genres Indianist imagery as an expression of imperial neo colonizing and decolonizing

photography and progressive photography as embodied in worker and laborist imagery as well as feminist and decolonizing visuality The book interweaves an autobiographical narrative with concrete research Mraz describes the resistance he encountered in US academia to this new way of showing and describing the past in films and photographs as well as some illuminating experiences as a visiting professor at several US universities More importantly he reflects on what it has meant to move to Mexico and become a Mexican Mexico is home to a thriving school of photohistorians perhaps unequaled in the world Some were trained in art history and a few continue to pursue that discipline However the great majority work from the discipline known as photohistory which focuses on vernacular photographs made outside of artistic intentions A central premise of the book is that knowing the cultures of the past and of the other is crucial in societies dominated by short term and parochial thinking and that today's hyper audiovisuality requires historians to use modern media to offer their knowledge as alternatives to the perpetual present in which we live

Smith, 2017-11-14 Stephanie J. Smith brings Mexican politics and art together chronicling the turbulent relations between radical artists and the postrevolutionary Mexican state The revolution opened space for new political ideas but by the late 1920s many government officials argued that consolidating the nation required coercive measures toward dissenters While artists and intellectuals some of them professed Communists sought free expression in matters both artistic and political Smith reveals how they simultaneously learned the fine art of negotiation with the increasingly authoritarian government in order to secure clout and financial patronage But the government Smith shows also had reason to accommodate artists and a surprising and volatile interdependence grew between the artists and the politicians Involving well known artists such as Frida Kahlo Diego Rivera and David Alfaro Siqueiros as well as some less well known including Tina Modotti Leopoldo Méndez and Aurora Reyes politicians began to appropriate the artists' nationalistic visual images as weapons in a national propaganda war High stakes negotiating and co-opting took place between the two camps as they sparred over the production of generally accepted notions and representations of the revolution's legacy and what it meant to
