Regional Disparities in the Enlarged European Union Valentina Meliciani,2015-10-14 The last twenty years have seen an increase in European integration and the emergence of the technological revolution Although tighter integration coupled with technological innovation should facilitate cross regional convergence some European regions have managed to jump ahead while others have been left behind This book examines the regional characteristics that favour growth and analyses the relevance of innovation socio economic and structural factors in shaping regional economic disparities In this book particular attention is devoted to the EU enlargement towards the East to its consequences on Europe s traditional North South divide and to the increasing regional disparities in new member states after the transition It demonstrates the growing importance of innovation and human capital in explaining the increase in income and employment disparities in old EU members particularly after the 2008 financial crisis It also shows that for newcomers regional disparities are essentially linked to socio economic factors as capital regions approach Western standards while others mainly old industrial regions and peripheral ones lag behind This book integrates theoretical discussion with empirical evidence and will appeal to regional scientists interested in regional inequalities and to policy makers concerned with devising effective strategies to tackle regional disparities in Europe

A Life Cycle for Clusters? Kerstin Press, 2006-09-05 rium states but on the development process following an external shock Kerstin Press adopts a new methodological approach She develops a theoretic model of clusters change and adaptation that is based on the N K model of complex s tems Kauffman 1993 Taking the existing insight on the dynamics of N K s tems propositions on the influence of cluster architecture on adaptability are rived In a second step these propositions are tested by simulations comparing the adaptability of clusters with given differences in their architecture regarding the degree of division of labour on the one and the governance structure on the other hand Both aspects division of labour governance were found to matter for cl ter adaptability in previous empirical studies but general causalities for their role in cluster adjustment could not be derived from individual case studies Within the all else held equal perspective adopted in the simulation model one explanation for how and when division of labour and governance matter for cluster adjustment is found While the model faces several limitations these are more to be seen as possible areas for future research The present study opens up new avenues in cluster research Rather than just focussing on emergence or existence clusters are viewed as entities underlying a dynamic development The analysis of their adaptability to external changes c stitutes a first important step towards a non deterministic perspective on cluster development

The Empirical and Institutional Dimensions of Smart Specialisation Philip McCann, Frank van Oort, John Goddard, 2016-11-25 Smart specialisation is the new policy approach to the development of regional innovation systems across Europe and it involves fostering innovative and entrepreneurial initiatives which are well tailored to the local context The different technologies skills profiles business activities institutions and sectors which reflect a region s economic strengths and potential are to be fostered and encouraged to diversify in ways which also exploit the region s linkages with broader global value chains Yet the ideas contained in the smart specialisation agenda have until now been primarily conceptual in nature The Empirical and Institutional Dimensions of Smart Specialisation draws together some of the leading regional economists and scientists in Europe to analyse how smart specialisation is working in practice This book investigates different dimensions of the agenda as it is developing across parts of Europe from both quantitative and qualitative perspectives The quantitative analysis examines the nature of the diversification processes undertaken by regions and the interplay between the chosen local regional development priorities and the wider global value chain impacts of these choices Meanwhile the qualitative analysis examines the institutional opportunities and challenges facing policy makers and the key elements most likely to provide the underpinnings of a workable set of policy settings The book is aimed both at academic researchers interested in the interface between economic geography and regional innovation systems as well as at policy makers making public policy decisions related to regional development at the local city regional or national levels
