Women as Scribes Alison I. Beach, 2004-04-29 Professor Beach's book on female scribes in twelfth century Bavaria a full length study of the role of women copyists in the Middle Ages is underpinned by the notion that the scriptorium was central to the intellectual revival of the Middle Ages and that women played a role in this renaissance The author examines the exceptional quantity of evidence of female scribal activity in three different religious communities pointing out the various ways in which the women worked alone with other women and even alongside men to produce books for monastic libraries and discussing why their work should have been made visible whereas that of other female scribes remains invisible Beach's focus on manuscript production and the religious intellectual social and economic factors which shaped that production enables her to draw wide ranging conclusions of interest not only to palaeographers but also to those interested in reading literacy religion and gender history
