Discussed are new drugs or groups of compounds in development bridging the gap between ulcer research and clinical pharmacology. With an emphasis on key developments in ulcer pharmacology this volume helps to clarify and illuminate the complex pathophysiology of ulcer disease. National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),

The Stomach W. Domschke, S.J. Konturek, 2012-12-06 On the subject of stomach and gastric diseases current clinical morphological pharmacological biochemical as well as cellular and molecular biological aspects will be presented. The articles of the first part of this book will discuss the normal functions of the stomach such as motility secretion tissue regeneration etc. The second part deals with pathophysiological aspects such as inflammation ulceration and tumor formation and modern possibilities of treatment. The authors aim at gaining a deeper knowledge of the stomach its physiology and pathophysiology in order to use this knowledge for the better of their patients. Clinical Pharmacology and Therapy of Pár, 2012-12-06 The scientific main programmes of these series of symposia changed from time to time following the international scientific trends. The main programmes of the First Symposium were 1 Gastric and intestinal cytoprotection 2 Hepatoprotection 3 Pancreatic protection. For the second one 1 Gastrointestinal mucosal cytoprotection 2 Liver cytoprotection 3 Pancreatic cytoprotection 4 Free radicals and scavengers 5 Computer approach to cytoprotection. For the third one 1 Basic central peripheral and cellular mechanisms of gastrointestinal cytoprotection 2 Esophageal protection 3 Gastric protection 4 Small intestinal injury and protection 5 Large bowel injury and protection 6 Liver injury and protection 7 Pancreas injury and protection. The main scientific programmes of the Fourth International Symposium on Cell Injury and Protection in the Gastrointestinal Tract are 1 General mechanisms of gastrointestinal injury and protection 2 Cell injury and protection in the stomach 3 Cell injury and protection in the small intestine and in the large bowel 4 Cell injury and protection in the liver and pancreas 5 Cell injury and protection of the premalignant status and malignant diseases in the gastrointestinal tract. The presented papers are published in this book. The abstracts of this meeting were published in Digestive Diseases and Sciences and we record appreciation of the Editor of that journal for their publication. Some of the papers published here have appeared in Inflammopharmacology 1996 4 331-398. Endogenous Mediators of Gastrointestinal Damage John L. Wallace, 1989-09-30 This text helps the reader determine whether or not the gastrointestinal mucosa ulcerates can be viewed as a balance between aggressive factors present in the lumen and the mucosal defence system. Several of these aggressive factors such as acid bile and pepsin are endogenous substances. Similarly several endogenous substances exert control over mucosal blood flow and secretion and thus are important mediators of mucosal defence In this volume experts in this field have contributed chapters on some of the most important of these endogenous mediators including histamine prostaglandins leukotrienes and platelet activating factor The potential contribution of these mediators to gastrointestinal disease has been assessed Also discussed is the role these mediators play in gastrointestinal side effects of drugs i e non steroidal anti inflammatory drugs Also covered are the mechanisms of action of endogenous mediators relative to the the drugs used clinically for the treatment of maladies of the digestive system This volume will be of interest to the basic scientist the clinical investigator and to students of pathophysiology and medicine

Immunopharmacology of Epithelial Barriers Roy Goldie, 1994-04-05 The realisation that epithelial tissues are not simply passive barriers to the adsorption of materials into internal environments has brought about an enormous growth of investigation of mucosal functions and their active and passive protective roles Epithelia are highly organized but complex structures subserving numerous functions including immunological defence The use of pharmacological tools in these systems is increasing which is improving our understanding of epithelial immunobiology This volume adopts a step by step approach whereby each chapter builds upon the previous one progressively adding important foundation information culminating in a series of chapters concerning particular epithelia including respiratory gastrointestinal renal and ocular The result is a comprehensive but integrated treatise of epithelial function and its immunopharmacology which aims to serve as an appropriate starting point at which the clinical pulmonologist and the research scientist can obtain an appreciation of some aspects of epithelial immunopharmacology as they are currently understood
