Young Children Reading Rachael Levy, 2011-06-22

Developing and supporting literacy is an absolute priority for all early years settings and primary schools and something of a national concern. By presenting extensive research evidence, Rachael Levy shows how some of our tried and tested approaches to teaching reading may be counter-productive and are causing some young children to lose confidence in their abilities as readers. Through challenging accepted definitions and perspectives on reading, this book encourages the reader to reflect critically on the current reading curriculum and to consider ways in which their own practice can be developed to match the changing literacy landscape of the 21st century. Placing the emphasis on the voices of the children themselves, the author looks at what it feels like to be a reader in the digital age, children's perceptions of reading at home and at school, reading in multidimensional forms, the future teaching of reading. Essential reading for all trainee and practising teachers, this critical examination of a vital topic will support all those who are interested in the way we can help future generations to become literate. This book will encourage researchers and practitioners alike to redefine their own views of literacy and situate reading literacy within the digital world in which young children now live.

Successful Teaching Placement Jane Medwell, 2007-04-24

It deals with the full range of issues from finding out about the placement school to managing difficult behaviour on placement. This second edition is linked to the 2007 Standards for QTS and reflects recent documents and initiatives.
