Interpreting African American History and Culture at Museums and Historic Sites Max A. van Balgooy,2014-12-24 In this landmark guide nearly two dozen essays by scholars educators and museum leaders suggest the next steps in the interpretation of African American history and culture from the colonial period to the twentieth century at history museums and historic sites This diverse anthology addresses both historical research and interpretive methodologies including investigating church and legal records using social media navigating sensitive or difficult topics preserving historic places engaging students and communities and strengthening connections between local and national history Case studies of exhibitions tours and school programs from around the country provide practical inspiration including photographs of projects and examples of exhibit label text Highlights include Amanda Seymour discusses the prevalence of false nostalgia at the homes of the first five presidents and offers practical solutions to create a more inclusive nuanced history Dr Bernard Powers reveals that African American church records are a rich but often overlooked source for developing a more complete portrayal of individuals and communities Dr David Young executive director of Cliveden uses his experience in reinterpreting this National Historic Landmark to identify four ways that people respond to a history that has been too often untold ignored or appropriated and how museums and historic sites can constructively respond Dr Matthew Pinsker explains that historic sites may be missing a huge opportunity in telling the story of freedom and emancipation by focusing on the underground railroad rather than its much bigger upper ground counterpart Martha Katz Hyman tackles the challenges of interpreting the material culture of both enslaved and free African Americans in the years before the Civil War by discussing the furnishing of period rooms Dr Benjamin Filene describes three micro public history projects that lead to new ways of understanding the past handling source limitations building partnerships and reaching audiences Andrea Jones shares her approach for engaging students through historical simulations based on the Fight for Your Rights school program at the Atlanta History Center A exhibit on African American Vietnam War veterans at the Heinz History Center not only linked local and international events but became an award winning model of civic engagement A collaboration between a university and museum that began as a local history project interpreting the Scottsboro Boys Trial as a website and brochure ended up changing Alabama law A list of national organizations and an extensive bibliography on the interpretation of African American history provide convenient gateways to additional resources

Encyclopedia of Historical Archaeology Charles E. Orser Jr, 2002-09-11 The Encyclopedia of Historical Archaeology is a ground breaking compendium of information about this ever growing field Concentrating on the post 1400 period as well as containing generic explanations of historical archaeology where needed the encyclopedia is compiled by over 120 experts from around the world and contains more than 370 entries covering important concepts and sites

Beyond Money, Cars, and Women Jasmin S. Greene, 2009-05-05 Masculinity and hip hop are two topics that have been gaining wide attention in recent years However research has often been limited to solely criticizing the hip hop movement and examining the culture from a very parochial outsider s perspective An in depth study of the relationship between hip hop and black masculinity with commentary from the very men who are affected by it is missing from the academia It is with this thought that I have written my book I wish to give a voice to those who have not yet been heard from to examine and bring to light the damaging as well as positive affects that hip hop has on black men by talking to every day black men themselves and to show that the hip hop phenomenon can be used as a great political tool for mobilizing this generation This book examines stereotypical definitions of black manhood and looks at how specific images and lyrics in hip hop promote these stereotypes I discuss how young black men often growing up without fathers look to the males in hip hop as role models I argue that negative aspects of hip hop are really affecting young black men and that artists need to be more conscious of their impact and role in the black community I also discuss many positive hip hop artists and music and that conscious hip hop is kept underground intentionally by corporations I have integrated a case study throughout the book where I interviewed young black men on ideas of masculinity education and hip hop I end by discussing the positive in hip hop and by giving examples of how it can be taken so much farther especially to connect the young urban community with politics and social awareness
