Colburn, 2019-09-11 A study of the material culture of Egypt during the period of Achaemenid Persian rule c 526 404 BCE Provides a clear overview of the archaeological evidence for Achaemenid Egypt including temples tombs irrigation works statues stelae seals and coins Demonstrates how different types of evidence both textual and archaeological including material of uncertain provenance can be used to address a single historical question Offers critical discussion of the dating criteria used by archaeologists for Egyptian Late Period material Elucidates strategies used by the Persians to establish and maintain control of Egypt Examines how these strategies may have affected the lives of people living in Egypt during the 27th Dynasty Creates a new explanatory model for the introduction of coinage to ancient Egypt Previous studies have characterised Achaemenid rule of Egypt either as ephemeral and weak or oppressive and harsh These characterisations however are based on the perceived lack of evidence for this period filtered through ancient and modern preconceptions about the Persians Henry Colburn challenges these views by assembling and analyzing the archaeological remains from this period including temples tombs irrigation works statues stelae sealings drinking vessels and coins By looking at the decisions made about material culture by Egyptians Persians and others it becomes possible to see both how the Persians integrated Egypt into their empire and the full range of experiences people had as a result A Companion to Ancient Egypt, 2 Volume Set Alan B. War and Worship Susan Möller-Wiering,2011-08-30 War and Worship concerns textile deposits from the bog sites of Thorsberg in Germany and Nydam Vimose and Illerup dal in Denmark All four sites are well known for containing a substantial amount of archaeological materials particularly weapons but they also contain as integral parts of the weapon deposits a smaller number of preserved textiles which nevertheless constitute outstanding assemblages With the exception of Thorsberg publications dealing particularly with textiles from weapon deposits are almost non existent The textiles from each site are analysed then compared to one another and described as a unit characterising the particular site Comparisons are then made between the four sites with emphasis on the overall context A final chapter by Lise R der Knudsen analyses tablet woven textiles in the deposits a textile technique used to make bands edges and borders Although the state of preservation of the textiles at the different locations varies hugely the research has extracted a large amount of information allowing conclusions on status origin function and role in the deposits to be drawn The fabrics presented here were unquestionably consecrated textiles They had been worn by the defeated foreign warriors during the battle and were considered worthy as sacrificial offerings to the gods Some individual high status textiles were perceived to have a value comparable to certain metal items Others probably the majority were used for covering and wrapping other offerings for the subsequent sacrifice All were committed to the lakes in a sacred act of remembrance to celebrate victorious battles Coptic Culture and Community Mariam F.
