

CONVERSION

LIGHTHEARTED I walked into the valley wood

In the time of hyacinths,
Till beauty like a scented cloth
Cast over, stifled me. I was bound Motionless and faint of breath
By loveliness that is her own eunuch.

Now pass I to the final river
Ignominiously, in a sack, without sound,
As any peeping Turk to the Bosphorus.

first time Pound's writings for the journal and his extensive correspondence with one of its editors James Taylor Dunn and the leading writers who Pound himself attempted to recruit for the magazine. Numbering almost forty letters and twenty published and unpublished articles, these writings represent a darkly significant time in Pound's thought as his infatuation with the rise of fascism took root. Annotated throughout and supported by substantial explorations of the historical and cultural contexts of the writings, the book also includes a substantial bibliography of related writings and a biographical glossary of the major figures discussed in the correspondence and writing. Together, these texts represent an important resource for anyone interested in an important phase of 20th Century literary modernism. A Guide to Ezra Pound's

It starts off with a lucid introduction to Pound's technique in general and to his imagist phase during which the poems commented on in this book were written in particular. In the critical passages Mr Ruthven steers a sage middle course between the attitudes of uncritical adoration and wholesale rejection that mar so much of the literature on Pound, informative without being pedantic and exhaustive without being long-winded.
