JFK and His Enemies Thomas J. Whalen, 2014-05-23 The famed 19th century humorist Finely Peter Dunne once commented that life would not be worth living if we didn't keep our enemies Certainly John F. Kennedy could appreciate the wisdom behind this observation At nearly every stage of his noteworthy political career which stretched from the dank run down tenement houses of Charlestown Massachusetts in 1946 to the gleaming downtown skyscrapers of Dallas Texas in 1963 Kennedy had collected his fair share of enemies Some like Henry Cabot Lodge Jr in 1952 and Lyndon Johnson in 1960 presented formidable political obstacles to his attaining higher office Others like Nikita Khrushchev during the Cuban Missile Crisis of 1962 threatened the very survival of the human race itself Regardless of the stakes Kennedy always seemed to rise to the level of the domestic or international challenge presented Our problems are man made therefore they may be solved by man he said To those who knew him best this single mindedness was not surprising He clearly wanted to establish a place in history insisted Robert McNamara Kennedy's Secretary of Defense But being an historian himself Kennedy realized that political success did not come easily or cheaply It required individual strength of character clarity of thought and the ability to act decisively There are risks and costs to action he allowed But they are far less than the long range risks of comfortable inaction
