For Life Abundant Dorothy C. Bass, Craig Dykstra, 2008-04-29 Bass and Dykstra have written extensively and collaboratively on Christian Practices arguing that the what Christians have done faithfully over time constitutes a life giving way of life and that this living of Christianity is more primary to what it means to be Christian than doctrinal confession that our confessions spring from faithful living rather than the other way around This book contains numerous essays that take up the question of Christian Practices and ministry the preparation of ministers theological education etc in a post Enlightenment understanding of the relationship of practice and head knowledge Because the book is the result of a community conversation it doesn t have a clear thesis but it models its conviction that reflection on theology arises from community conversation around our life in discipleship together An extremely helpful beginning to a conversation about ministry practices of faith clergy preparation etc as the time has come to integrate the kind of learning that comes in the classroom with the kind that only comes from living the faith with others Amazon com

Emotions in Rituals and Performances Axel Michaels, Christoph Wulf, 2020-11-29 Challenging the idea that rituals are static and emotions irrational the volume explores the manifold qualities of emotions in ritual practices Focusing explicitly on the relationship between emotions and rituals it poses two central questions First how and to what extent do emotions shape rituals Second in what way are emotions ritualized in and beyond rituals Strong emotions are generally considered to be more spontaneous and uncontrolled whereas ritual behaviour is regarded as planned formalized and stereotyped and hence less emotional However as the volume demonstrates rituals often reveal strong emotions among participants are motivated by feelings or are intended to generate them The essays discuss the motivation for rituals the healing function of emotions the creation of new emotions through new media the aspect of mimesis in the generation of feelings individual collective and non human emotions the importance of trance and possession staged emotions and emotions on stage emotions in the context of martyrdom emotions in Indian and Western dance traditions emotions of love sorrow fear aggression and devotion Furthermore aesthetic and sensory dimensions as well as emic concepts of emotions in rituals are underscored as relevant in understanding social practice

Zoroastrian Rituals in Context Michael Stausberg, 2004 Rituals play a prominent role in Zoroastrianism one of the oldest religious traditions of mankind In this book scholars from a broad range of disciplines make the first ever collective effort to discuss Zoroastrian rituals in different historical contexts and geographical settings

Writing African History John Edward Philips, 2005 Writing African History is an essential work for anyone who wants to write or even seriously read African history. It will replace Daniel McCall's classic Africa in Time Perspective as the introduction to African history for the next generation and as a reference for professional historians, interested readers, and anyone who wants to understand how African history is written. Africa in Time Perspective was written in the 1960s when African history was a new field of research. This new book reflects the development of African history since then. It opens with a comprehensive introduction by Daniel McCall followed by a chapter by the editor explaining what African history is and is not in the context of historical theory and the development of historical narrative in the humanities and social sciences. The first half of the book focuses on sources of historical data while the second half examines different perspectives on history. The editor's final chapter explains how to combine various sorts of evidence into a coherent account of African history. Writing African History will become the most important guide to African history for the 21st century.

Religion and the Arts: History and Method Diane Apostolos-Cappadona, 2017-11-06. In Religion and the Arts: History and Method, Diane Apostolos Cappadona presents an overview of the 19th century origins of this discrete field of study and its methodological journey to the present day through issues of repatriation, museum exhibitions, and globalization. Apostolos Cappadona suggests that the fluidity and flexibility of the study of religion and the arts has expanded like an umbrella since the 1970s and the understanding that art was simply a visual exegesis of texts to now support the study of material, popular, and visual culture as well as gender. She also delivers a careful analysis of the evolution of thought from traditional iconographies to the transformations once scholars were influenced by response theory and challenged by globalization and technology. Religion and the Arts: History and Method offers an indispensable introduction to the questions and perspectives essential to the study of this field.

Contemporary Consumer Culture Theory John F. Sherry, Eileen M. Fischer, 2017-05-25. Contemporary Consumer Culture Theory contains original research essays written by the premier thought leaders of the discipline from around the world that reflect the maturation of the field. Consumer Culture Theory over the last decade. The volume seeks to help break down the silos that have arisen in disciplines seeking to understand consumer culture and speed both the diffusion of ideas and possibility of collaboration across frontiers. Contemporary Consumer Culture Theory begins with a re-evaluation of some of the fundamental notions of consumer behaviour such as self and other branding and pricing and individual vs communal agency then continuing with a reconsideration of role configurations as they affect consumption.

examining in particular the ramifications of familial gender ethnic and national aspects of consumers lived experiences The book move on to a reappraisal of the state of the field examining the rhetoric of inquiry the reflexive history and critique of the discipline the prospect of redirecting the effort of inquiry to practical and humanitarian ends the neglected wellsprings of our intellectual heritage and the ideological underpinnings of the evolving construction of the concept of the brand

Contemporary Consumer Culture Theory is a reflective assessment in theoretical empirical and evocative keys of the state of the field of consumer culture theory and an indication of the scholarly directions in which the discipline is evolving providing reflection upon a rapidly expanding discipline and altered consumption scapes by some of its prime movers Chinese Steles Dorothy C. Wong,2004-09-30 Buddhist steles represent an important subset of early Chinese Buddhist art that flourished during the Northern and Southern Dynasties period 386 581 More than two hundred Chinese Buddhist steles are known to have survived Their brilliant imagery has long captivated scholars yet until now the Buddhist stele as a unique art form has received little scholarly attention Dorothy Wong rectifies that insufficiency by providing in this well illustrated volume the first comprehensive investigation of this group of Buddhist monuments She traces the ancient roots of the Chinese stele tradition and investigates the process by which Chinese steles were adapted for Buddhist use She arranges the known corpus of Buddhist steles into broad chronological and regional groupings and analyzes not only their form and content but also the nexus of complex issues surrounding this art form from cultural symbolism to the interrelations between religious doctrine and artistic expression economic production patronage and the synthesis of native and foreign art styles In her analysis of Buddhism s dialogue with native traditions Wong demonstrates how the Chinese artistic idiom planted the seeds for major achievements in figural and landscape arts in the ensuing Sui and Tang periods Religious Transformation in the Late Pre-Hispanic Pueblo World Donna M. Glowacki,Scott Van Keuren,2012-02-01 The mid thirteenth century AD marks the beginning of tremendous social change among Ancestral Pueblo peoples of the northern US Southwest that foreshadow the emergence of the modern Pueblo world Regional depopulations long distance migrations and widespread resettlement into large plaza oriented villages forever altered community life Archaeologists have tended to view these historical events as adaptive responses to climatic environmental and economic conditions Recently however more attention is being given to the central role of religion during these transformative periods and to how archaeological remains embody the complex social practices through which Ancestral Pueblo understandings of sacred concepts were expressed and transformed The contributors to this volume employ a wide range of archaeological evidence to examine the origin and development of religious ideologies and the ways they shaped Pueblo societies across the Southwest in the centuries prior to European contact With its fresh theoretical approach it contributes to a better understanding of both the Pueblo past and the anthropological study of religion in ancient contexts This volume will be of interest to both regional specialists and to scholars who work with the broader dimensions of religion and ritual in the human experience Audience and Reception in the Early Modern Period John R. Decker, Mitzi Kirkland-Ives, 2021-09-09 Early modern audiences readerships and viewerships were not homogenous Differences in status education language wealth and experience to name only a few variables could influence how a group of people or a particular person received and made sense of sermons public proclamations dramatic and musical performances images objects and spaces The ways in which each of these were framed and executed could have a serious impact on their relevance and effectiveness The chapters in this volume explore the ways in which authors poets artists preachers theologians playwrights and performers took account of and encoded pluriform potential audiences readers and viewers in their works and how these varied parties encountered and responded to these works The contributors here investigate these complex interactions through a variety of critical and methodological lenses Ritual and Christian Beginnings Risto Uro, 2016-04-28 The rise of early Christianity has been examined from a myriad of perspectives but until recently ritual has been a neglected topic Ritual and Christian Beginnings A Socio Cognitive Analysis argues that ritual theory is indispensable for the study of Christian beginnings It also makes a strong case for the application of theories and insights from the Cognitive Science of Religion a field that has established itself as a vigorous movement in Religious Studies over the past two decades Risto Uro develops a socio cognitive approach to the study of early Christian rituals seeking to integrate a social level analysis with findings from the cognitive and evolutionary sciences Ritual and Christian Beginnings provides an overview of how ritual has been approached in previous scholarship including reasons for its neglect and introduces the reader to the emerging fields of Ritual Studies and the Cognitive Science of Religion In particular it explores the ways in which cognitive theories of ritual can shed new light on issues discussed by early Christian scholars and opens up new questions and avenues for further research The socio cognitive approach to ritual is applied to a number of test cases including John the Baptist the ritual healing practiced by Jesus and the early Christians the social life of Pauline Christianity and the development of early Christian baptismal practices The analysis creates building blocks for a new account of Christian beginnings highlighting the role of ritual innovation cooperative signalling and the importance of bodily actions for the generation and transmission of religious knowledge Ancient Art Revisited Christopher Watts, Carl Knappett, 2022-09-21 Ancient Art Revisited develops new perspectives on ancient art by weaving together diverse strands within archaeology and art history exploring it through recent developments in archaeological theory In order to foster dialogue among various subfields contributors are drawn from a wide range of domains Classical archaeology Aegean prehistory Near Eastern archaeology Egyptology Pre Columbian South America and North America are brought together to explore ancient art from multiscalar perspectives and through the lenses of entanglement theory network thinking assemblage theory and other recent theoretical developments Representing a new wave in research on ancient art considering both the proximal and distributed operations of artworks Ancient Art Revisited provides broad and inclusive coverage of ancient art and offers a cohesive approach to a fragmented area of study This book will be suitable for archaeologists anthropologists and art historians wishing to understand the latest thinking on ancient art      Masquerades in African Society Walter E. A. Van Beek, Harrie M. Leyten, 2023 What is the meaning of masks and masquerades in African traditions and how can we understand their role in rituals and performances Why do we find masks in some African regions and not in others and what does this mask habitat say about the general dynamics of masquerades in Africa Though masks are among the most famous art icons of Africa exploration of their uses and the way in which they articulate social characteristics of African societies has been underexamined This book takes an anthropological perspective on the phenomenon of masquerades on the African continent to show how mask rituals are an integral part of African indigenous religions and societies and are informed by and linked to specific types of social and ecological conditions Having established the commonalities of mask rituals and a mask typology the authors look at the varieties of mask performances and the types of rituals in which masks function in rites of passage and in rituals of gender power and identity
