Muslims And Others:

Muslims and Others in Early Islamic Society Robert Hoyland, 2021-03-24 The interaction between Muslims and the other religious denominations of the Middle East in the period 620-1020 is the subject of this volume. This is arguably the single most important issue in the history of the early Islamic Middle East since the Muslims were initially a minority in the lands that they had conquered and so had to reach some modus vivendi with the various religious communities in their realm. Fifteen articles by leading scholars shed light on this process from a number of different perspectives: historical, conceptual, legal, social, and theological. An introduction both gives an overview and examines possibilities for future research. The period under study is demarcated at one end by the Prophet Muhammed d. 632 who, as the Qur'an tells us, had to deal with Jews, Christians, and polytheists. At the other end lies the great legal-political thinker Manardi d. ca. 1020, by whose time the Middle East had become substantially Islamicised.

Muslims and Others Jacques Waardenburg, 2003 Jacques Waardenburg writes about relations between Muslims and adherents of other religions. He shows how Muslims perceived non-Muslims, particularly Christianity and the West, but also Judaism and Asian religions in many centuries of religious dialogue and tensions.

Muslims and Others in Sacred Space Margaret Cormack, 2013-01-10 This collection of seven essays offers wide-ranging and in-depth studies of locations sacred to Muslims, of the histories of these sites, real or imagined, and of the ways in which Muslims and members of other religions have interacted peaceably in sacred times and spaces. The volume begins with a discussion by David Damrel of the official hostile Muslim attitude toward practices at shrines in South Asia. Lance Laird then presents a case study of a shrine holy to Palestinian Christians who identify its patron as St. George, as well as to Palestinian Muslims who believe that its patron is al-Khadr. Ethel Sara Wolper illustrates how al-Khadr's patronage was used also to show Muslim connections to Christian sites in Anatolia. JoAnn Gross's essay explores oral and written traditions linking shrines in Tajikistan to traditional Muslim locations and figures. A chapter by the late Thomas Sizgorich examines how Christian and Muslim authors used monastic settings to reimagine the relationship between the two religions. Alexandra Cuffel offers a study of attitudes towards the mixing of religious groups in religious festivals in eleventh to sixteenth-century Egypt. Finally, Eric Ross shows how the Layenne Sufi order incorporates a singular combination of Christian and Muslim figures and festivals in its history and practices. Muslims and Others in Sacred Space will be an invaluable resource to anyone interested in the complex meanings of sacred sites in Muslim history.

Muslims and Others Jacques Waardenburg, 2008-08-22 Jacques Waardenburg writes about relations between Muslims and adherents of other religions. After illuminating various aspects of Islam from an outside point of view in his volume Islam published in 2002 by de Gruyter, his second volume changes the perspective. The author shows how Muslims perceived non-Muslims, particularly Christianity and the West, but also Judaism and Asian religions in many centuries of religious dialogue and tensions. The main focus is on Muslim minorities in Western countries and on religious dialogues of which he provides first-hand knowledge through his participation in several important dialogue meetings After 50 years of research and personal involvement Waardenburg aims at a mutual understanding and reconciliation of Islam and other religions particularly Christianity both on an international level as well as on a more local level where old and new Christian and Muslim Europeans live together New Faiths, Old Fears Bruce B. Lawrence, 2004-10-20 As a result of immigration from Asia in the wake of the passage of the 1965 Hart Celler Immigration Act the fastest growing religions in America faster than all Christian groups combined are Islam Hinduism Buddhism and Sikhism In this remarkable book a leading scholar of religion asks how these new faiths have changed or have been changed by the pluralist face of American civil society How have these new religious minorities been affected by the deep rooted American ambivalence toward foreign traditions Bruce Lawrence casts a comparativist eye on the American religious scene and explores the ways in which various groups of Asian immigrants have and sometimes have not been integrated into the American polity In the process he offers several important correctives Too often Lawrence argues profiles of Asian American experience focus exclusively on immigrants from East Asia to the exclusion of South Asian and West Asian voices New Faiths Old Fears seeks to make all Asians equally important and to break free of traditional geographic markers most reflecting nineteenth century imperial values that artificially divide the people of the Middle East from the rest of Asia with whom they share certain religious and cultural ties Iranian Americans in particular emerge as a vital bridge group whose experience tells us much about how Asians of many different backgrounds have found their way in their new nation Beyond simply expanding and refining our conception of who Asian Americans are Lawrence draws instructive comparisons between Asian Americans experience and those of Native African and Hispanic Americans exposing undercurrents of racial and class antagonisms He concludes that we cannot fully comprehend the contours and valences of culture and religion in America without understanding how this racialized class prejudice shapes the views of the dominant class toward immigrants and other marginal groups Muslims and Others Jean Jacques Waardenburg, 1971 The Other Muslims Z. Baran, 2010-03-15 This book is a unique collection of alternative Muslim voices predominantly from Europe who come from a variety of backgrounds academia theology acting activism and who make a transformational contribution to the debate of the future of Islam and Muslims in the West Muslims of Uttar Pradesh Amir Ullah Khan, Abdul Shaban, Venkatanarayana Motkuri, 2025-09-29 This book provides a comprehensive look into the development challenges and critical socio economic issues of the Muslim communities in Uttar Pradesh India s most populous state and home to one of its largest Muslim populations Well known for its syncretic culture benevolent kings and nawabs Uttar Pradesh has also been a region that has historically experienced significant religious politics and communal violence This book moves beyond these sectoral approaches and attempts to present a holistic detailed and contemporary perspective on the development of Muslims in the state It traces the complex sectarian caste based occupational and regional diversities within the Muslim population in Uttar Pradesh and investigates the intersections of identity social stratification and development Drawing on detailed empirical

A Common Humanity Dr Chigor Chike, 2016-11-21 These are the words of some Muslim leaders in Forest Gate London about their relationship with people of other faiths The Prophet says the heaviest things on the scale will be good manners Not prayer Not charity Good manners When the Prophet said good manners he did not say good manners to Muslims He did not say good manners to non Muslims The Prophet kept it vague he said good manners People will see that church people Muslim people and the people of temples are working together The message will go to the community to live peacefully I believe this is a good idea We must work on that This is the teaching of Islam as well If you are a religious leader in your area it is very important for you to engage with other religions So then other people will see you and think my religion is allowing me to engage with other people All religious communities look at their leaders A Common Humanity is based primarily on interviews conducted by the author with a group of Muslims involved in an interfaith project in Forest Gate London
