understandings of the relationship between writing activity and physical activity Jackie Hoermann Elliott provides an interdisciplinary overview of relevant research from the fields of composition studies cognitive science neuroscience and sports psychology before proposing a new theoretical framework for explaining what happens to writers when they are moved to develop their writing while their bodies are in motion She shares illuminating accounts from runner writers working in the industries of journalism academia and youth literature She also provides pedagogical insights from working with student writers on embodied writing assignments as well as introductory activities for instructors to try in their own classrooms With a running metaphor guiding the chapters in this book readers will be challenged to view writing as embodied cognition and to realize the benefits of embodiment for all writers      Second Language Creative Writers Yan Zhao,2015-02-03 This monograph investigates 15 L2 creative writers social constructive power in identity constructions Through interviews and think aloud story writing sessions the central study considers how L2 writer voices are mediated by the writers autobiographical identities namely their sense of selves formulated by their previous language learning and literacy experiences The inquiry takes the epistemological stance that L2 creative writing is simultaneously a cognitive construct and a social phenomenon and that these two are mutually inclusive The study contributes to L2 creative writing research and L2 learner identity research and will be of benefit to researchers language teachers and writing instructors who wish to understand creative writing processes in order to help develop their students positive self esteem confidence motivation and engagement with the L2      Making Meaning by Making Connections Kathy L. Schuh,2016-10-20 This book documents those first links that students make between content they learn in their classrooms and their prior experiences Through six late elementary school case studies these knowledge construction links are brought to life The links of the students are often rich in describing who these individuals are where they are in their learning process and what is meaningful to them Many times these links point to what has been learned both in and out of school and the contexts when and where that learning took place The mind as rhizome metaphor was used to guide the development and interpretation of the studies while the lens of Peircian semiotics provides an interpretation for these initial links The resulting grounded theory is presented through a rich and extensive presentation of excerpts from classroom observations student interviews and a student writing activity and describes the varying types of student links how the links were prompted the relationships between what the students were learning and what they already knew and specific types of in school links The narrative includes how these links were supported or inhibited in the classroom drawing on the roles of the teachers in the classrooms and what constituted authority sources of information in those classrooms Before exploring the students linking as a process of ongoing semiosis and how this process is part of a dynamic system a study of the relationship between student knowledge links and achievement is shared This rich narrative will be of interest to scholars and practitioners alike and includes an extensive appendix documenting the research methods      Reclaiming Pedagogy Patricia Donahue,1989 Besides the editors the essayists are Lori Chamberlain Michael Clark Dennis A Foster Jon Klancher Randall Knoper Elaine O Lees Mariolina Salvatori and Nina Schwartz Donahue and Quandahl present accessible and exciting efforts to explore composition teaching in a new mode perhaps a pristine paradigm of cultural criticism Approximately half of the essays investigate the pedagogical agenda implied in the theories of a particular writer Barthes Lacan or Burke for example and place such theories in the classroom The remaining essays examine pedagogy as a critical practice The book does not advocate a single method of instruction but instead reminds us that theory is itself continually modified by the classroom
