Reginald Pecock:

Bishop Reginald Pecock Vivian Hubert Howard Green,1945 Bishop Reginald Pecock and the Lancastrian Church Charles W. Brockwell,1985 A study of the controversial Bishop Pecock a minor but notorious theologian and hammerer of Lollards Albion who was misjudged by Catholics and Protestants alike Reginald Pecock, churchman and man of letters, a study in fifteenth century English prose Emmet A Hannick,1922 Reginald Pecock Joseph F. Patrouch,1970 Image, Text, and Religious Reform in Fifteenth-Century England Shannon Gayk,2010-09-30 Focusing on the period between the Wycliffite critique of images and Reformation iconoclasm Shannon Gayk investigates the sometimes complementary and sometimes fraught relationship between vernacular devotional writing and the religious image She examines how a set of fifteenth century writers including Lollard authors John Lydgate Thomas Hoccleve John Capgrave and Reginald Pecock translated complex clerical debates about the pedagogical and spiritual efficacy of images and texts into vernacular settings and literary forms These authors found vernacular discourse to be a powerful medium for explaining and reforming contemporary understandings of visual experience In its survey of the function of literary images and imagination the epistemology of vision the semiotics of idols and the authority of written texts this study reveals a fifteenth century that was as much an age of religious and literary exploration experimentation and reform as it was an age of regulation Reginald Pecock, Churchman and Man of Letters Emmet A. Hannick (d),1922 Reginald Pecock's Book of Faith Reginald Pecock,1909 Reading Families Rebecca L. Krug,2018-09-05 Rebecca Krug argues that in the later Middle Ages people defined themselves in terms of family relationships but increasingly saw their social circumstances as being connected to the written word Complex family dynamics and social configurations motivated women to engage in text based activities Although not all or even the majority of women could read and write it became natural for women to think of writing as a part of everyday life Reading Families looks at the literate practice of two individual women Margaret Paston and Margaret Beaufort and of two communities in which women were central the Norwich Lollards and the Bridgettines at Syon Abbey The book begins with Paston's letters which were written at her husband's request and ends with devotional texts that describe the spiritual daughterhood of the Bridgettine readers Scholars often assume that medieval women's participation in literate culture constituted a rejection of patriarchal authority Krug maintains however that for most women learning to engage with the written word served as a practical response to social changes and was not necessarily a revolutionary act The Language of Heresy in Late Medieval English Literature Erin K. Wagner,2024-04-22 Vernacular writers of late medieval England were engaged in global conversations about orthodoxy and heresy Entering these conversations with a developing vernacular required lexical innovation The Language of Heresy in Late Medieval English Literature examines the way in which these writers complemented seemingly straightforward terms like heretic with a range of synonyms that complicated the definitions of both those words and orthodoxy itself This text proposes four specific terms that become collated with heretic in the parlance of medieval English writers of the 14th and 15th centuries jangler Jew Saracen and witch These four labels are especially important insofar as they represent the way in which medieval Christianity appropriated and subverted marginalized or vulnerable identities to promote a false image of unassailable authority

Literary Theory and Criticism in the Later Middle Ages Ardis Butterfield, Ian Johnson, Andrew Kraebel, 2023-04-20 This collection makes a new profound and far reaching intervention into the rich yet little explored terrain between Latin scholastic theory and vernacular literature Written by a multidisciplinary team of leading international authors the chapters honour and advance Alastair Minnis's field defining scholarship A wealth of expert essays refract the nuances of theory through the medium of authoritative Latin and vernacular medieval texts providing fresh interpretative treatment to known canonical works while also bringing unknown materials to light

Humanism and History Joseph M. Levine, 2019-05-15 In this thoughtful and engaging book Joseph M Levine reveals how Renaissance humanists and their neoclassical progeny transformed the ways that the English practices history and viewed the past Between 1500 and 1800 many of the methods of modern historiography were first introduced into England where they developed under the influence of classical philology and the study of antiquities English scholars gradually differentiated past from present and successfully detected and recovered the ancient Roman Saxon Celtic and Norman cultures A first attempt was also made to distinguish historical fact from fiction and such legends as the Trojan origins of Britain and the Donation of Constantine were rejected Levine sets the scene for these developments with an examination of the historical outlook of William Caxton at the end of the Middle Ages he concludes with an essay on Edward Gibbon whose work three centuries later he argues summarizes the whole achievement of early modern historiography Along the way Levine investigates such topics as the transformation the antiquarian enterprise into modern archaeology the quarrel between the ancients and the moderns the Gothic revival and the influence of humanism on Francis Bacon and the new philosophy

The Life and Ideas of Reginald Pecock Thelma Jorgenson, 1930

Hell's Destruction Catherine Ella Laufer, 2016-04-22 The credal affirmation he descended to the dead has attracted a plethora of views over the centuries and many Christians today struggle to explain the meaning of these words This book explores various interpretations of the doctrine of Christ's descent to the dead both within particular historical contexts and within contemporary theology Laufer argues that the descensus clause Christ's descent is integral to Christian faith specifically to the doctrine of the incarnation If we are to affirm that in Christ God became truly human then that affirmation must include his sharing in the state of being dead that is the ultimate consequence of being human Laufer concludes that since the Son has experienced genuine human death and the separation from God which is the essence of hell there is no longer any human condition from which God is absent either in this life or in eternity Christ's descent means that he is truly hell's destruction Drawing on a treasure trove of writings from the western theological tradition including Luther Calvin Maurice Balthasar Moltmann and others and attending to historical theological exegetical philosophical and pastoral issues this book explores an often ignored doctrine which lies at the core of Christian life death and faith The Dublin Review, 1875 Wiseman Review, 1875 Medieval and Early Modern Religious Cultures Laura Ashe, Ralph Hanna, 2019
