Regional Financial Cooperation Jose Antonio Ocampo, 2007-08-29 A Brookings Institution Press and Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean ECLAC publication Using the experience of postwar Western Europe as a benchmark Jos Antonio Ocampo and his colleagues assess how regional financial institutions can help developing countries often at a disadvantage within the global financial framework finance their investment needs counteract the volatility of private capital flows and make their voices heard The 1997 Asian financial crisis generated extensive debate on the international financial architecture Through this discussion it became clear that services by financial institutions including adequate mechanisms for preventing and managing financial crises and instruments for safeguarding global macroeconomic and financial stability are undersupplied Furthermore private international capital markets provide finance to developing countries in a way that effectively reduces the ability of those nations to undertake countercyclical macroeconomic policies International capital markets ration out many developing countries particularly the poorest from private global capital markets While these deficiencies in the financial architecture are clear the post 1997 debate has done little to evaluate the role that regional institutions could play in improving global financial arrangements Regional Financial Cooperation aims to fill that important gap Contributors include Ernest Aryeetey Institute of Statistical Social and Economic Research University of Ghana Georges Corm Saint Joseph University Beirut Roy Culpeper North South Institute Ottawa Ana Teresa Fuzzo de Lima Institute of Development Studies University of Sussex Stephany Griffith Jones Institute of Development Studies University of Sussex Julia Leung Hong Kong Monetary Authority Jos Luis Machinea ECLAC Jae Ha Park Korean Institute of Finance Yung Chul Park Korea University Fernando Prada FORO Nacionall International Lima Guillermo Rozenwurcel School of Politics and Government University of San Martin Argentina

United Kingdom: Financial Sector

Assessment Program-Select Issues in Systemic Risk Oversight and Macroprudential Policy International Monetary Fund, International Monetary Fund. Monetary and Capital Markets Department, 2022-04-08 The United Kingdom's macroprudential policy framework has proven its effectiveness After the Global Financial Crisis GFC of 2007-09 the United Kingdom assigned the Bank of England BOE a clear financial stability mandate created a new Financial Policy Committee FPC to set macroprudential policy and shifted to a twin peaks model of financial oversight The 2016 Financial Sector Assessment Program FSAP concluded that the new framework appeared appropriate for effectively conducting macroprudential policy However the framework was then relatively new The 2021 FSAP represents an opportunity to review its performance in building systemic resilience through the financial cycle including the market volatility resulting from the Brexit vote and the COVID-19 pandemic

A United Kingdom? John Mohan, 2014-04-23 The human geography of the UK is currently being reshaped by a number of forces such as globalisation transition in the organisations of production the changing character of state intervention and changing relationships with Europe A consideration of the impacts of these forces on economic social and political landscapes is therefore an urgent task At the same time enduring institutional features of the British economy and polity are also having important influences on socio-economic processes The result is a complex mosaic of uneven development which belies the notion of simplistic regional contrasts Rather than simply mapping spatial inequality A United Kingdom charts the processes underpinning uneven development at a range of scales and for a number of key topics The book draws upon and synthesises the latest contemporary research findings and places emphasis on the interrelated nature of economic social and political geographies It treats the human geographies of the UK in a coherent and integrated way and asks whether contemporary processes of change are tending towards the reduction of socio-spatial divisions or their reproduction in new forms

Offshore Financial Centers, Accounting Services and the Global Economy Don E. Garner, David L. McKee, Yosra AbuAmara McKee, 2000-07-30 The new global climate of free enterprise has brought with it a proliferation of offshore financial centers that presumably have important roles to play in the emergent global economy The air of secrecy that appears to pervade the activities of offshore financial centers may well slant or obscure any real understanding of the functions of such centers The authors investigate the role of major international accounting firms and their services in the processes of business facilitation in the locations that host these centers By focusing the investigation upon the role of the accounting firms in offshore financial centers the authors gain a better grasp of the real or potential impacts of the firms in the global economy and in the jurisdictions that host them Not only do the authors provide a detailed assessment of what the major accounting firms are actually doing in the centers but they point out what attributes are needed by jurisdictions hoping to succeed as offshore financial centers The centers included are Antigua Barbuda the Bahamas Barbados Bermuda the Cayman Islands the Channel Islands the Isle of Man Gibraltar Malta Cyprus Bahrain the United Arab Emirates Mauritius the Seychelles Singapore and Vanuatu The authors describe the legal and institutional environments facing business operations in general and the accounting firms in particular in offshore financial centers By studying these operations it should show what they are doing in terms of facilitating the international activities that flow through such centers It should also add to the understanding of the potential that offshore activities have as vehicles for development in small emerging economies This study should be of interest to a wide range of business disciplines as well as governmental agencies in advanced and emerging nations international agencies such as regional development banks and accountants and the international financial community The UK Aerospace Industry Great Britain:

Parliament: House of Commons: Trade and Industry Committee, 2005-05-18 UK aerospace Industry Fifteenth report of session 2004 05 Vol 2 Oral and written Evidence Reforming UK Public Policy Through Elected Regional Government Malcolm J. Prowle, 2022-08-12 This book takes an in depth look at the enormous challenges facing UK public services and considers what might be done to resolve them The authors are confident that more of the same over centralised approaches to public policy and so called levelling up policies will just not work Instead they argue for an application of radical measures involving the creation of elected regional governments in England similar to the devolved arrangements in Wales Scotland and Northern Ireland The book comprises four distinct parts introduction and context the need for major reform policies for individual public services and cross cutting themes Following an introduction and discussion of the meaning of the terms public policy and public services the first part goes on to discuss at length the substantial challenges to public policy and public services The second part sets out the need for over arching reforms designed to address the issues discussed above namely the development of elected regional governments Each chapter in part three explores key themes concerning individual public policy areas and public services while part four discusses a number of themes which cut across all the public services already considered Although the book is focused on and is of great relevance within the UK it also has international appeal as many of the themes discussed will have resonance in other countries and the analysis of public policy in regional administrations will also be of interest in other jurisdictions It will appeal to students and academics in the fields of government and politics economics finance and accounting public administration public service management and social policy as well as policymakers practicing civil servants public service managers and elected representatives People's Republic of China-Hong Kong Special Administrative Region: Financial Sector Assessment Program-Technical Note-Stress Testing the Banking Sector and Systemic Risk Analysis International Monetary Fund.
