Handbook of Regional Conflict Resolution Initiatives in the Global South Jeronimo Delgado-Caicedo, 2022-07-28 During the first half of the twentieth century the international system was largely dominated by the USA and the colonial powers of western Europe After the two world wars the political and economic dominance of these states guaranteed them and their allies an almost complete control of world politics However as it is the norm in the international system power structures are not immutable After the end of the Cold War rapid changes to the existing international hierarchies took place as new countries from the so called developing world began to emerge as crucial actors capable of questioning and altering the power dynamics of the world It is therefore unthinkable to ignore emerging countries such as Russia the People's Republic of China India Brazil or South Africa in the decision making process in today's world order In addition there is a group of smaller yet increasingly important countries that while acknowledging their inability radically to change the rules of the international system are still eager to shift power relations and enhance their influence in the world Argentina Colombia Egypt Indonesia Iran South Korea Mexico Nigeria Pakistan Saudi Arabia Turkey and Vietnam are generally recognised as part of this grouping of emerging powers from the Global South While there is a consensus amongst academics that emerging powers from the Global South must have a stabilising role within their own regions previous analyses have focused primarily on the impact that emerging powers have had in their own regions conflict resolution initiatives This volume

instead aims to go beyond these analyses and provide new insights regarding the effect that this stabilising role has on the continental and global positioning of emerging powers In other words this book explores the relation between a country s involvement in conflict resolution initiatives and its positioning in the international system The volume will contribute to this approach using the perspective of academics and practitioners from countries of the Global South particularly from states that have strengthened or sometimes weakened their position in the international hierarchy of power through a leading role in regional conflict resolution initiatives

Peacock, 2011-04-01 The world is flat Maybe not says this paradigm shifting study of globalism s impact on a region legendarily resistant to change The U S South long defined in terms of its differences with the U S North is moving out of this national and oppositional frame of reference into one that is more international and integrative Likewise as the South home to UPS CNN KFC and other international brands goes global people are emigrating there from countries like India Mexico and Vietnam and becoming southerners Much has been made of the demographic and economic aspects of this shift Until now though no one has systematically shown what globalism means to the southern sense of self Anthropologist James L Peacock looks at the South of both the present and the past to develop the idea of grounded globalism in which global forces and local cultures rooted in history tradition and place reverberate against each other in mutually sustaining and energizing ways Peacock s focus is on a particular part of the world however his model is widely relevant Some kind of grounding in locale is necessary to human beings Grounded Globalism draws on perspectives from fields as diverse as ecology anthropology religion and history to move us beyond the model advanced by such scholars as C Vann Woodward that depicts the South as a region paralyzed by the burden of its past Peacock notes that while globalism may lift old burdens it may at the same time impose new ones He also maintains that earlier regional identities have not been replaced by the rootless cosmopolitanism of cyberspace or other abstracted systems Attachments to place remain even as worldwide markets erase boundaries and flatten out differences and distinctions among nations Those attachments exert their own pressures back on globalism says Peacock with subtle strengths we should not discount Zonal Biomes of Southern Africa Ladislav Mucina, Michael C. Labrador,Neil Asher Silberman,2018-07-11 The field of cultural heritage is no longer solely dependent on the expertise of art and architectural historians archaeologists conservators curators and site and museum administrators It has dramatically expanded across disciplinary boundaries and social contexts with even the basic definition of what constitutes cultural heritage being widened far beyond the traditional categories of architecture artifacts archives and art Heritage now includes vernacular architecture intangible cultural practices knowledge and language performances and rituals as well as cultural landscapes Heritage has also become increasingly entangled with the broader social political and economic contexts in which heritage is created managed transmitted protected or even destroyed Heritage protection now encompasses a growing set of methodological approaches whose objectives are not necessarily focused upon the maintenance of material fabric which has traditionally been cultural heritage s primary concern The Oxford Handbook of Public Heritage Theory and Practice charts some of the major sites of convergence between the humanities and the social sciences where new disciplinary perspectives are being brought to bear on heritage These convergences have the potential to provide the interdisciplinary expertise needed not only to critique but also to achieve the intertwined intellectual political and socioeconomic goals of cultural heritage in the twenty first century This volume highlights the potential contributions of development studies political science anthropology management studies human geography ecology psychology sociology cognitive studies and education to heritage studies Natural Hazards in the Asia-Pacific Region James P. experienced researchers and novices with the materials to explore the different domains of contemporary life Southeast Asia between China and Japan Lam Peng Er, Victor Teo, 2011-11-15 Triangular relations which frame China and Japan as two sides of an isosceles triangle usually focus on the United States as the significant third side This edited book examines another relatively underexplored set of triangular relations those between China Japan and Southeast Asia The region comprised of eleven small and medium size states is often considered inconsequential in the tempestuous world of international politics where political clout economic prowess military strength and soft power matter most Often seen as easily dominated by extra regional great powers this volume reconsiders the region's relationship with China and Japan their two Asian neighbours to the northeast which also happen to be the world's second and third largest economies While China and Japan do compete for turf in Southeast Asia states in the region do not perceive themselves as strategic pawns of these two great Asian powers but instead as proactively engaging China and Japan in the region The country specific case studies of this book collectively support the thesis that the Southeast Asian states actively seek to manoeuvre between China and Japan for their own advantage and at the same time grapple with developments in Northeast Asia through regional integration efforts Through the establishment of benchmark norms and values Southeast Asia attempts to socialise China and Japan and other external powers to the ASEAN way Indeed Southeast Asia as a region is now the driver of East Asian multilateralism and regionalism and the East Asian reality is that Southeast Asia is a major political economic and cultural player in its own right vis vis the great powers
