Evolutionary Economic Geography in China Canfei He, Shengjun Zhu, 2019-03-25. The book provides the first detailed account of the complex geographical dynamics restructuring China's manufacturing industries from the evolutionary economic geography perspective. These geographical and industrial shifts have enormous implications in and beyond China for what is possible in the post crisis global economy. The book demonstrates that the interface between evolutionary economic geography approaches and other approaches e.g. global value chain, global production network, institutional economic geography could be a fertile area for further consideration. The two main audiences that this book appeals to are economic geography and regional science. The topics covered in the book are also relevant to development studies, economics, economic sociology and international studies, offering academics, international researchers, post graduate and advanced undergraduate students in these fields an accessible, grounded yet theoretically sophisticated account of the evolutionary economic geography in China and its interaction with firm performance and regional economic development. The book is also attractive to national policy makers since it engages directly with economic and industrial policy issues such as industrial competitiveness, regional and national development, industrial and employment restructuring and trade regulation.
