Johnson, 2005-04-12 Ailish Johnson examines national welfare state regimes of EU Member States and the features of the European Union and the International Labour Organization that encourage cooperation and assure outcomes of supranational cooperation higher than theories of inter state bargaining or social dumping would predict By tracing the development of EU and global social policy from the 1950s to today she identifies policy leaders resisters and passive states She concludes with an analysis of the forms and outputs of supranational social policy and suggests limits of social policy in an enlarged European Union

Towards a Liberal Utopia? Philip Booth, 2006-12-15 The first part of this fascinating book outlines the dreams of liberal economics and political scientists The thinkers sketch out frameworks for policy which in increasing the domain for individual action will give rise to beneficial results and lead to a better and more prosperous society The second part of the book shows how an earlier generation of liberal economists turned ideas into action Led by Ralph Harris and Arthur Seldon the authors writing for the IEA helped to turn back the tide of collectivism by exposing its intellectual failings

Can the Celtic Tiger Cross the Irish Border? John Bradley, J. Esmond Birnie, 2001 One of the Republic's outstanding economists John Bradley and the prominent Unionist politician and economist Esmond Birnie debate to what extent Northern Ireland can learn from the phenomenon of the Celtic Tiger Professor Bradley asks what lessons the North can take from the success of the Republic's economic planning and whether it makes sense for the island to trade and seek investment as one unit in a globalized economy Dr Birnie wonders whether the low level of trade and economic interchange between the two Irish economies is really abnormal in European terms and whether a successfully co-ordinated island economy is possible in two separate political jurisdictions

A European Strategy for Jobs and Growth Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: European Union Committee, 2006-03-16 This report by the European Union Committee examines the progress of the European Union in initiating a strategy for jobs and growth across the Community as a whole The background to this report stems from the Spring European Council meeting in 2000 in Lisbon and the launch of an economic reform agenda The Committee observes that since the Lisbon Agenda little progress has been made and the performance of many of the larger European economies has been poor The Committee has noted that certain worrying signs of protectionist behaviour have developed especially regarding barriers of cross border mergers The EU has recognized this weak performance and the Agenda was relaunched in 2005 with a greater focus on the key economic priorities of more growth and jobs Also all Member States are now required to produce an annual National Action Plan highlighting the policies being pursued to improve economic growth and increase employment The Committee sets out a number of recommendations to further push forward the priorities of growth and jobs including that the Commission should seek to complete the progress towards an internal market that Member States should influence one another in the development of good practice through statistical comparison of their economic progress and agree on quantifiable targets that the format of the National Action Plans should include not only the successes but where countries are underperforming that the Agenda be given a higher public profile

Understanding the Process of Economic Change Douglass Cecil North,1999 Regulating the Risk of Unemployment Jochen Clasen,Daniel Clegg,2013-10-17 Regulating the Risk of Unemployment offers a systematic comparative analysis of the recent adaptation of European unemployment protection systems to increasingly post industrial labour markets These systems were mainly designed and institutionalized in predominantly industrial economies characterized by relatively standardized employment relationships and stable career patterns as well as plentiful employment opportunities even for those with low skills Over the past two to three decades they have faced the challenge of an accelerating shift to a primarily service based economy accompanied by demands for greater flexibility in wages and terms and conditions in low skill segments of the labour market as well as pressures to maximise labour force participation given the more limited potential for productivity led growth The book develops an original framework for analysing adaptive reform in unemployment protection along three discrete dimensions of institutional change which are termed benefit homogenization risk re categorization and activation This framework is then used to structure analysis of twenty years of unemployment protection reform in twelve European countries In addition to mapping reforms along these dimensions the country studies analyse the political and institutional factors that have shaped national patterns of adaptation Complementary comparative analyses explore the effects of benefit reforms on the operation of the labour market assess evolving patterns of working age benefit dependency and examine the changing role of active labour market policies in the regulation of the risk of unemployment Regulatory Reform and Competitiveness in Europe: Vertical issues Giampaolo Galli,Jacques Pelkmans,2000-01-01 The second of two volumes this text discusses the vertical issues involved in regulatory reform The contributors describe in detail the regulatory reforms which are needed or have been initiated in nine major industrial sectors including automobiles textiles and clothing retail trade chemicals banking road transport telecoms electricity and scheduled air transport They argue that regulatory reform can more often than not help improve the competitiveness of companies while generating net growth effects for the European Union as a whole Routledge Handbook of the Economics of European Integration Harald Badinger,Volker Nitsch,2015-10-05 Routledge Handbook of the Economics of European Integration provides readers with a brief but comprehensive overview of topics related to the process of European integration in the post World War II period Its short chapters reflect the most up to date and concise research written by a collective of experts on their own subjects The aim of this book is twofold Firstly the text illustrates the broad and diverse range of issues associated with European integration and lastly the key approaches and findings are summarised. Since institutional integration in Europe is an ongoing process with possibly frequent and sometimes rapid changes the chapters are intended to focus on the key features of the economic analyses of these topics. A wide and diverse set of economic issues is of direct relevance for European integration. These topics cover various fields ranging from the history of the European Economic and Monetary Union, EU Trade Policy and the stability of international trade, single market issues over fiscal, monetary and other policies, the crisis that faces the Euro area and institutions such as the EU Council of Ministers. Not surprisingly many of these issues have also been analysed from a European perspective. This handbook is designed to provide students, researchers, the public and policy makers with ready and accessible knowledge of issues related to European integration and will provide the definitive overview of research in the area.
