whole and religion in particular Drawing together case studies from many different expressions of faith and belief Hindu Muslim Roman Catholic Anglican New Age leading scholars ask how contemporary religions or spiritualities respond to the challenge of forming individual and collective identities in a nation context marked by secularisation and postmodern decentring of culture as well as religious revitalisation The book focuses on Britain as a context for religious change but asks important questions that are of universal significance for those studying religion How is personal and collective identity constructed in a world of multiple social and cultural influences What role can religion play in creating reinforcing or even transforming such identity

Religious Identity and National Heritage Francis-Vincent Anthony, 2012-05-18 In some parts of our world religion is on the wane losing its thrust of doctrinal authority and communal bonds In other regions it is gaining public significance as a powerful social cultural and political force Secularization theories are less successful in accounting for these differences in religion s role Other theories describe religion in terms of social capital to be invested whenever it offers certain personal social or political benefits and market opportunities allow smart choices Still other theories simply hold that religion corresponds to an inborn need or stable disposition that guarantees a culture s identity and reflects a natural equilibrium of social cohesion There are also critical theories that point to the intrinsic relationship of religion with power and identify it as a major cause of tension and conflict In this book distinguished scholars reflect on these questions and present empirical research about religious identity and national heritage

Identity and the Sacred Hans Mol, 1977

Religion, Identity and Politics in Northern Ireland Claire Mitchell, 2006 There has been increased interest in the relationship between religion identity and politics in modern societies Building on this debate Claire Mitchell presents a challenging analysis of religion in contemporary Northern Ireland arguing that religion is not merely a marker of ethnicity and that it continues to provide many of the meanings of identity community and politics Drawing on a range of unique interview material this book traces how individuals and groups in Northern Ireland have absorbed religious types of cultural knowledge belonging and morality

Redefining Christian Identity Jan J.

Ginkel, Hendrika Lena Murre-van den Berg, Theo Maarten van Lint, 2005 Cultural interaction in the Middle East since the Rise of Islam such was the title of a combined research project of the Universities of Leiden and Groningen aimed at describing the various ways in which the Christian communities of the Middle East expressed their distinct cultural identity in Muslim societies As part of the project the symposium Redefining Christian Identity Christian cultural strategies since the rise of Islam took place at Groningen University on April 7 10 1999 This book contains the proceedings of this conference From the articles it becomes clear that a number of distinct cultural strategies can be identified some of which were used very frequently others only in certain groups or at particular periods of time The three main strategies that are represented in the papers of this volume are i reinterpretation of the pre Islamic Christian heritage ii inculturation of elements from the new Islamic context iii isolation from the Islamic context Viewed in time it is clear that the reinterpretation of older Christian heritage was particularly important in the first two centuries after the rise of Islam the seventh and eighth centuries that inculturation was the dominant theme of the Abbasid period in the ninth to twelfth centuries whereas from the Mongol period onwards from the thirteenth to the eighteenth centuries isolation more and more often occurs although inculturation of elements from the predominantly Muslim environment never came to a complete standstill

Religion, Identity and Human Security Giorgio Shani, 2014-04-03 Religion Identity and Human Security seeks to demonstrate that a major source of human insecurity comes from the failure of states around the world to recognize the increasing cultural diversity of their populations which has resulted from globalization Shani begins by setting out the theoretical foundations dealing with the transformative effects of globalization on identity violence and security The second part of the volume then draws on different cases of sites of human insecurity around the globe to develop these ideas examining themes such as securitization of religious symbols retreat from multiculturalism rise of exclusivist ethno religious identities post 9 11 state religion colonization and the racialization of migration Highlighting that religion can be a source of both human security and insecurity in a globalizing world Shani offers a critical human security paradigm that seeks to de secularize the individual by recognizing the culturally contested and embedded nature of human identities The work argues that religion serves an important role in re embedding individuals deracinated from their communities by neo liberal globalization and will be of interest to students of International Relations Security Studies and Religion and Politics
