

KEY WORDS:

Philosophy of Religion

1.1 Revelation: A revelation is when a truth is revealed that was previously hidden (Christians don't believe that revelations occur to prove God's existence, as they already believe God's existence. It's simply to make their belief stronger).

There are different types of revelations, for example visions or miracles.

In the Bible, revelations are shown to have occurred in many forms, but are important and consistent (Elements are agreeing between two parties, in this case it would be God and his people).

Christians believe that God's revelations teach them that:

- God loves humanity the world, his people to have a relationship with him
- God is holy He helps people to live a life free of sin so they can know him
- God is eternal He revealed himself to earth, but has also shown that humans can have eternal life with him. "God gave us his only son". (John)

Consistent with Noah (Promise)	There was great evil in the world, so God sent a huge flood. Everything was wiped away except Noah and his family because he hadn't done anything wrong. God blessed Noah and told him the flood would never return again. "Never again will there be a flood to destroy the earth" (Genesis)
Consistent with Abraham	God made Abraham promise that he would give him many descendants and land. "This is my promise to you, you will be the father of many nations" (Genesis)
Consistent with Jesus	This was God's final covenant with humanity. He promised eternal life to anyone that believed in him. Jesus' covenant is believed to be the most important because he was divine and therefore people could truly connect with him both as a human and a spiritual being. "God spoke to us through his son" (Hebrews)

1.2 Visions: God can reveal himself through visions. This could involve seeing God, or other religious beings such as angels etc. It could be an actual vision or a dream. There are many examples of visions in the Bible. Some of these include Abraham being promised land and descendants, or when God converted to Christianity and became Paul.

Visions are important because they might:

- Tell people God's plan
- Encourage a person to take action or to change their life
- Show people that God loves them
- Strengthen their faith in God

"Young men will see visions and old men will dream" (Job)

There are many examples of non-biblical visions:

Bernadette's Apparition	Bernadette saw a vision of virgin Mary who appeared to her to build a chapel to heal the sick.	Thomas/Henry's Religious Vision	• He saw a bright glow • Witnesses might not be reliable • Religious people might reveal true visions and make them more faithfully than what they saw • May have been a hallucination • Just because a vision might be true, it doesn't mean that God exists	Christian Testimonies	• A vision is a powerful experience that strengthens a person's faith • The Bible has many accounts of visions • Visions can change lives. This must be the work of God
God truly appeared	Three children saw an angel that taught them how to pray. They then saw 'virgin Mary who promised them a miracle.

- Catholic Christians like Catholic church will only accept visions that don't contradict with their teachings. There are lots.
- Protestant Christians/Other Christians encourage people to ask God for visions and will help their followers to understand what they mean.

Conservative Anglicans do not accept any visions. They would say that God only speaks through the church. God only speak through in scriptures and prophets.

1.3 Miracles: Miracles are amazing or impossible events that science cannot explain, that are understood to be God.

There are many miracles mentioned in the Bible including:

- Moses parting the sea (Exodus)
- Jesus healing the sick (John)
- Jesus said that the miracles he performs are done in his father's name and show God's power and the nature of God. (John 10)

Christian Views	Non-Religious Views
• The Bible contains many miracles • Someone that experiences a miracle may have made direct contact with God. They won't be mistaken • If science can't explain it, it must be God • Healing miracles show how much God loves his people • Miracles show God's power Liberal (or critical) Christians would say that miracles are in the Bible to help us understand God. They might not actually have occurred. Conservative (or literal) Christians believe that all miracles happened as they read in the Bible. Even though they might be hard to understand, they were important to show us they must have happened.	• It may have been a coincidence • Science is developing and day science might be able to explain something which is seen as a miracle now but because science can't explain it, it doesn't mean its God. There could be a different reason.

1.4 Religious Experiences: Religious experiences are events that a person believed has brought them into direct contact with God. This could include:

Dreams – visions – hearing God's voice – having a near death experience – experiencing a miracle.

Most people that have had a religious experience would say that they have had a revelation where God has shown his goodness/beautiful or love. An experience like this would usually help them through difficult times, make their belief in God stronger or change their lives in some way.

Biblical Revelations – an example is Moses speaking with God through the burning bush (Exodus). The Bible says the experience changed Moses' life and the lives of many others.

Scientific Experiences	Non-Scientific Experiences
This kind of experience usually takes place when there are a group of Christians that have congregated together. They can take many forms such as speaking in tongues, making predictions about the future, speaking words of wisdom or healing others, through the power of God.	This kind of experience where a person is close to death. They describe seeing a bright light or passing through a tunnel, and seeing loved ones that might have died if the person was or speaks with God in a religious experience. Sometimes it can be a near death experience. These experiences would get people to think deeply about their lives and will often change them.
Are religious experiences proof for God's existence?
Yes: • God created the laws of science and so God can act outside of the laws of science • If someone has a vision of something there has most likely to work in their head and/or heart/mind. This gives them their evidence • There are often witness accounts can't be wrong • Religious experiences have founded major religions – Christianity and Christianity are built founded on religious experiences • Christians look for a genuine experience of God. They can't guarantee them to be mistaken	No: • No scientific proof for religious experiences – if it took place in a dream or a person's imagination • Might have been a hallucination due to drugs or ill health • In this case, a religious experience did not come from God but a person's mind alone • Not sufficient when a person says something because that's what they really want to use – for example if they feel lonely or need guidance. They may have a vision or dream that helps them work

1.5 Christian Testimony: About Prayer: Prayer is a way of communicating with God, this is usually (but not always) through words. It is important in Christianity because this is the way Christians can develop a relationship with God. Answered prayers make Christians feel that God loves them, is listening and cares for them. Prayer can take place in a congregation or on your own. Prayer could be to ask for forgiveness, praising God, seeking help etc.

"If we ask anything he will hear" (John) shows that Christians should have faith in God.

"The prayer of a righteous person is powerful and effective" (James) – pray for things that are in line with God's plan.
"We may ask and not receive if we do not ask with faith" (James) – pray for the person. Pray to be healed.

An unanswered prayer will make a Christian's belief in God stronger and also suggests that God knows to show that are faithful. If God doesn't answer a Christian's prayer, it may be because the prayer was selfish, God has a bigger plan, or it wasn't in their best interests. When they realize why God didn't answer their prayer it will make their belief stronger and they know that God is who and has their best interests at heart.
