What process does an architect go through to design buildings which become world renowned for their excellence? This book reveals the secrets behind these buildings. Through the gradual revelations made by an understanding of the thinking behind the form, you learn a unique methodology which can be used every time you look at any building.

The Architect as Magician Albert C. Smith, Kendra Schank Smith, 2020-05-07 The Architect as Magician explores the connection between magic and architecture. There is a belief that a greater understanding of the meaning of magic provides insights about architecture and architects' design processes. Architects influence the effects of nature through the making of their buildings. In an analogous condition, magicians perform rituals in an attempt to influence the forces of nature. This book argues that architects could gain much by incorporating ideas from magic into their design process. The book demonstrates through historical and current examples the important influence magic has had on the practice of architecture. The authors explain how magic helps us to understand the way we infuse architecture with meaning and how magic affects and inspires architectural creation. Aimed at architects, students, scholars, and researchers, The Architect as Magician helps readers discover the ambiguous and spiritual elements in their design process.

Constructing Building Enclosures Clifton Fordham, 2020-07-21 Constructing Building Enclosures investigates and interrogates tensions that arose between the disciplines of architecture and engineering as they wrestled with technology and building cultures that evolved to deliver structures in the modern era. At the center of this history are inventive architects, engineers, and projects that did not settle for conventional solutions, technologies, and methods. Comprised of thirteen original essays by interdisciplinary scholars, this collection offers a critical look at the development and the purpose of building technology within a design framework. Through two distinct sections, the contributions first challenge notions of the boundaries between architecture, engineering, and construction. The authors then investigate twentieth-century building projects exploring technological and aesthetic boundaries of postwar modernism and uncovering lessons relevant to enclosure design that are typically overlooked. Projects include Louis Kahn's Weiss House, Minoru Yamasaki's Science Center, Sigurd Lewerentz's Chapel of Hope, and more. An important read for students, educators, and researchers within architectural history, construction history, building technology, and design, this volume sets out to disrupt common assumptions of how we understand this history.

Nexus, 2002 The Nature of Order, Book Two: The Process of Creating Life Christopher Alexander, 2020-03-30 Scientifically this is perhaps the most exciting of the four books How do beautiful creations come into being Nature can make an infinite number of human faces each one unique each one beautiful The same is true for daffodils streams and stars But man made creations especially the towns and buildings of the 20th century have only occasionally been really good more often mediocre and in the last 50 years have most often been deadly What is the reason for the difference It hinges on the deep nature of the processes we use Merely understanding the geometry of beautiful and living form the topic of Book 1 is not enough to help us create such a living geometry In the 20th century our society was locked into deadly processes which created our current built environment process that most people were not really aware of and did not question Despite their best efforts and intentions architects and planners working within these processes could not achieve a living built environment Life and beauty in the built world arise only from processes which allow living structure to unfold The secret lies in knowing as nature does what must happen in what order what sequence of events allows a living form to unfold successfully Here in Book 2 Alexander puts forward a fully developed theory of living process He defines conditions for a process to be living that is capable of generating living structure He shows how such processes work and how they may be created At the core of the new theory is the theory of structure preserving transformations This concept new in scientific thinking is based on the concept of wholeness defined in Book 1 A structure preserving transformation is one which preserves extends and enhances the wholeness of a system Structure preserving transformations provide the means for any step by step process social biological architectural or technical to reach configurations which are most profound most capable of supporting life The process of creation whether in the formation of a single object or in the piecemeal aggregation of a town requires this sort of generative process a careful and deliberate sequence of steps in which each step creates the context for the next one and each next wholeness is derived from the previous wholeness Our billions of beautiful and unique human faces come from one class of sequences Driven by these sequences an initial cell differentiates again and again until beautiful and complex human beings emerge infinitely various always harmonious Making changes in society so that streets buildings rooms gardens and towns may be generated by hundreds of such sequences requires massive transformations This book is the first blueprint of those transformations
