Louisiana Survivor:

Survivor Nora Horton Green, 2012-11-21 This is a clear depiction of how devastating a hurricane can be. A hurricane of any magnitude should never be taken lightly. Unfortunately for New Orleans and the surrounding areas, Hurricane Katrina wasn't taken seriously enough because of the many hurricanes that had previously gone through the city. New Orleans has survived many of them, but this time the city was completely destroyed. This horrific storm claimed more than 1800 lives. Some say unnecessarily. Many families are still separated. I'm still displaced myself. Politicians play the blame game, but the outcome speaks for itself. Many lessons have been learned, not just to the ones who run the city but also to many citizens. Are homes or possessions or positions more important than lives? Will more women and children and the elderly and the indigent suffer again while their men in the family stand by helplessly again? Hopefully not. When did being poor start being a crime? When will just being human be enough? New Orleans is so small compared to other cities you can ride around the whole city about 3 times and still be home before dark. I miss New Orleans so much. There will never be another city like the one we had already. I don't care how new it gets. That wanted to see what it felt like to just be you. They couldn't wait to get in that French Quarter or the Jazz Festival at the Fair Grounds or Mardi Gras time. Oh boy. There was not a lot of need of a car in New Orleans unless you were a contractor or something like that. There were bus stops on almost every corner of the streets all over the city. They ran almost 5 to 10 minutes apart. Even on Sunday. So you could still go to church. Or sometimes we just walked. Where in the world do you know of a place with a church on one corner and a liquor store on the other and then a funeral home or bar room a few feet away? There were a lot of corner grocery stores in case you didn't feel like going all the way to the big stores just get a loaf of bread and some sandwich meat and a cold drink. It was so very unique. I loved it. I loved living there too. The people were so much more personable than anywhere in the world. Why would you buy a car if you didn't really need one or couldn't afford one? Unless you were white or wealthy. Damn, near every black person was on low income wages if you were lucky enough to have a job. Other than that you were on welfare and food stamps. The white and wealthy didn't really want to get rid of all the blacks. What would they do without us? Somebody told me that you have to have a certain percentage of poor people living in the city in order to receive government funds. We knew where the money was. We just couldn't get our hands on any of it. Can you guess why? We made the City of New Orleans what it was. There was no way for the citizens without transportation to leave the city. Mandatory or not. This was a very well known fact by everyone in City Hall and Baton Rouge, Louisiana. So why wasn't transportation provided sooner? Yes, I feel that a lot of this tragedy could have been avoided. It still hurts to know that so many people lost their loved ones. It's a terrible feeling to know that you can't even go home to the Lower Ninth Ward because the Mighty Muddy Dirty Nasty Mississippi River was allowed to infest your town with debris and raw sewer matter. We had sense enough to think that there were still some people in the United States of America in the year of 2005 with their noses stuck up so far in the air that they couldn't see themselves coming down far enough just to help.

Richard Baggett heard disconsolate believers expressing despair and frustration about their failures when comparing themselves to Biblical characters. As the author continued to peruse the Scriptures he discovered a startling truth: the heroes of the Bible were in truth ordinary people mired in crises who met the Living God and changed dramatically, becoming more than survivors. These saints who became legends were ordinary people who had in law problems committed vile sins, had doubts, expressed frustration and raged at the Lord, at times cheated, their siblings cursed the day that they were born, murdered Christians before becoming one and met the Lord in prison. But when they encountered the risen Christ they became extraordinary heroes of faith. Read their amazing stories in More Than Survivors Island in a Storm Abby Sallenger, 2010-09-07. Presents the story of the 1856 hurricane which decimated Isle Derniere, an island one hundred miles off the coast of New Orleans which served as a summer resort for the wealthy and the tragic loss of life and environmental devastation which resulted from the disaster. Divorce, Separation and the Distribution of Property J. Thomas Oldham, 2021-10-28. The book discusses existing legal regulations and rules in various states relating to the enforcement of premarital or postnuptial agreements regarding the parties' rights if they divorce. A Treatise on the Property Rights of Husband and Wife, Under the Community Or Ganancial System Richard A. Ballinger, 1895. Taking the Stand Amanda Konradi, 2007-10-30. Rape is one of the most under reported crimes in the U S and yet it is one of the most vicious, devastating and violent of all crimes. But getting justice for victims has not always been easy. Often the victim is criminalized, demonized, sexualized or otherwise attacked for her own part in the rape. But over the years laws have changed and prosecuting rapists has become more common. Taking the Stand describes the criminal prosecution of rapists from the perspective of the women who survived their violence and explores if, when and how the criminal justice process can work for them. Walking through the various responses rape victims have had to the criminal justice process, Konradi's vivid analysis provides new information to help raped women decide whether and how they should participate in prosecution to help friends and family assist them and to improve criminal justice practice for crime victims generally. Taking the Stand follows 47 rape survivors of varied ages and ethnicities from the terror and trauma of rape through reporting to law enforcement, police investigation and indictment, hearings for probable cause and trials, plea bargaining and sentencing. It focuses on women's experiences throughout the process and demonstrates how every experience is different. The problems that rape survivors face in the criminal justice process are not simply the result of the adversarial nature of court defense tactics or their own emotional reactions to violent sexual domination. Problems emerge from 1) the social networks in which survivors are situated, 2) their variable access to emotional and financial resources, 3) their lack of knowledge about the formal and informal practices of courtrooms, 4) their lack of structural power in the criminal justice process, and 5) standard procedures employed by prosecutors and police. By recognizing individual differences in rape survivors and their rape experiences, criminal justice personnel can better serve victims and by understanding the layers of criminal investigation and prosecution, survivors and their families can play a more active role on their own terms in an effort to bring about justice A rape survivor herself Konradi exposes in the raw language of the victims the very sensitive nature of the topic and the personal obstacles survivors face By addressing each stage of the criminal justice process she makes it easier for those who seek justice to make decisions and choose behaviors that will positively affect their outcomes and their personal experiences with the system

Ten Years after Katrina Mary Ruth Marotte, Glenn Jellenik, 2014-12-18 Hurricane Katrina blasted the Gulf Coast in 2005 leaving an unparalleled trail of physical destruction In addition to that damage the storm wrought massive psychological and cultural trauma on Gulf Coast residents and on America as a whole Details of the devastation were quickly reported and misreported by media outlets and a slew of articles and books followed offering a spectrum of socio political commentaries and analyses But beyond the reportage and the commentary a series of fictional and creative accounts of the Katrina experience have emerged in various mediums novels plays films television shows songs graphic novels collections of photographs and works of creative non fiction that blur the lines between reportage memoir and poetry The creative outpouring brings to mind Salman Rushdie s observation that Man is the storytelling animal the only creature on earth that tells itself stories to understand what kind of creature it is This book accepts the urge behind Rushdie s formula humans tell stories in order to understand ourselves our world and our place in it Indeed the creative output on Katrina represents efforts to construct a cohesive narrative out of the wreckage of a cataclysmic event However this book goes further than merely cataloguing the ways that Katrina narratives support Rushdie s rich claim This collection represents a concentrated attempt to chart the effects of Katrina on our cultural identity it seeks to not merely catalogue the trauma of the event but to explore the ways that such an event functions in and on the literature that represents it The body of work that sprung out of Katrina offers a unique critical opportunity to better understand the genres that structure our stories and the ways stories reflect and produce culture and identity These essays raise new questions about the representative genres themselves The stories are efforts to represent and understand the human condition but so are the organizing principles that communicate the stories That is Katrina narratives present an opportunity to interrogate the ways that specific narrative structures inform our understanding and develop our cultural identity This book offers a critical processing of the newly emerging and diverse canon of Katrina texts
