Under the Sky of My Africa Catharine Theimer Nepomnyashchy, Nicole Svobodny, Ludmilla A. Trigos, 2006-05-30 A wide ranging consideration of the nature and significance of Pushkin's African heritage Roughly in the year 1705 a young African boy acquired from the seraglio of the Turkish sultan was transported to Russia as a gift to Peter the Great This child later known as Abram Petrovich Gannibal was to become Peter's godson and to live to a ripe old age having attained the rank of general and the status of Russian nobility More important he was to become the great grandfather of Russia's greatest national poet Alexander Pushkin It is the contention of the editors of this book borne out by the essays in the collection that Pushkin's African ancestry has played the role of a wild card of sorts as a formative element in Russian cultural mythology and that the ways in which Gannibal's legacy has been included in or excluded from Pushkin's biography over the last two hundred years can serve as a shifting marker of Russia's self definition The first single volume in English on this rich topic Under the Sky of My Africa addresses the wide variety of interests implicated in the question of Pushkin's blackness race studies politics American studies music mythopoetic criticism mainstream Pushkin studies In essays that are by turns biographical iconographical cultural and sociological in focus the authors representing a broad range of disciplines and perspectives take us from the complex attitudes toward race in Russia during Pushkin's era to the surge of racism in late Soviet and post Soviet contemporary Russia In sum Under the Sky of My Africa provides a wealth of basic material on the subject as well as a series of provocative readings and interpretations that will influence future considerations of Pushkin and race in Russian culture

Why Urban-Rural Under-Developed Communities Will Never Develop in South Africa Dudu Sokhela, 2013-11 At the heart of community development in under developed communities ghettos and slums is society's need to deal decisively with poverty want and need South African author Dudu Sokhela has compacted cutting edge techniques and strategies that can ensure sustainable urban rural community development based on the person centered community development approach Drawing from extensive knowledge and experience of grass roots progressive social change acquired at various nonprofit organizations she presents a solid point of entry into the indigent community that is often characterized by poverty and inequalities The book's information is presented right from the time the indigent community is entered This allows readers to learn the values and beliefs that make up the community as well as the delicate process of consultation community participation and the hindrances hampering development that are coupled with the prevalent inexperience and promotion of dependency by service providers

Profound inequalities and favoritism exist in the way resources are funded and distributed by those in power There is also a lack of compliance in coordinating community programs and how the community can proceed in maintaining development once it has been started Why Urban Rural Under Developed Communities Will Never Develop in South Africa is a must read for those in the helping professions tasked with turning the tide of poverty in these communities in South Africa like the Mooiplaas Informal Settlement in Centurion This book can help bring to fruition new government strategies to regulate service providers funded by private organizations and also aid those that promote dependency in such communities Box of Treasures N. Cavell, 2018-05-08 WHAT MYSTERIES ARE CONTAINED WITHIN THE BOX In the Summer of 2016 Anne sits in her late husband s arm chair in the house where they had spent over sixty years together Despite being surrounded by family she misses him terribly as she reminisces about their time together on this earth thinking back on all the miracles and wonders they had shared as well as the struggles and disappointments Anne s youngest granddaughter Eva enters the room carrying an old tin box a box that had been forgotten placed in the back of a closet more than fifty years ago A box that contained what Anne used to consider her treasures As Anne looks through the contents of the box memories of her past instantly overwhelm her memories dating back to 1939 when she was just a young girl of fourteen Some memories are joyful some painful and some she would just as soon forget When her family begins to inquire about the box and its contents Anne is hesitant to share her story Should she reveal the story of her past Could she For the box not only contains distant memories it contains secrets as well
