McLerran, 2022-08-16 As the Great Depression touched every corner of America the New Deal promoted indigenous arts and crafts as a means of bootstrapping Native American peoples But New Deal administrators romanticization of indigenous artists predisposed them to favor pre industrial forms rather than art that responded to contemporary markets In A New Deal for Native Art Jennifer McLerran reveals how positioning the native artist as a pre modern Other served the goals of New Deal programs and how this sometimes worked at cross purposes with promoting native self sufficiency She describes federal policies of the 1930s and early 1940s that sought to generate an upscale market for Native American arts and crafts And by unraveling the complex ways in which commodification was negotiated and the roles that producers consumers and New Deal administrators played in that process she sheds new light on native art s commodity status and the artist s position as colonial subject In this first book to address the ways in which New Deal Indian policy specifically advanced commodification and colonization McLerran reviews its multi pronged effort to improve the market for Indian art through the Indian Arts and Crafts Board arts and crafts cooperatives murals museum exhibits and Civilian Conservation Corps projects Presenting nationwide case studies that demonstrate transcultural dynamics of production and reception she argues for viewing Indian art as a commodity as part of the national economy and as part of national political trends and reform efforts McLerran marks the contributions of key individuals from John Collier and Rene d Harnoncourt to Navajo artist Gerald Naylor whose mural in the Navajo Nation Council House conveyed distinctly different messages to outsiders and tribal members Featuring dozens of illustrations A New Deal for Native Art offers a new look at the complexities of folk art revivals as it opens a new window on the Indian New Deal

New Deal Art John P. Murphy,2025-09-25 Franklin D Roosevelt's landslide victory in the USA's 1932 presidential election gave him a mandate to institute a New Deal for US citizens and by so doing offer them a more abundant life For a decade between 1933 and 1943 the New Deal art programs marked the largest federal investment in the arts in the history of the country Tens of thousands of artists and artisans across the country produced some 2 500 murals 100 000 easel paintings 17 000 sculptures and 200 000 prints How should we understand the history and legacy of the New Deal art programs today Marshalling new scholarship and original research New Deal Art highlights the contributions of a diverse range of women immigrant working class Indigenous Black Asian Jewish Latinx and LGBTQ artists While previous studies have focused on the personalities and politics of government administrators this book offers a history from below that stresses the role of artists as activists through collective efforts such as the Artists Union and the American Artists Congress It explores topics that traditionally fall outside the purview of art history art as therapy in prisons and hospitals children's art community art centres and art education and the place of handicrafts and applied arts Above all New Deal Art centres the question of art and democracy What if art was treated as a natural resource to which all citizens had an equal right Expressing New Mexico Phillip B. Gonzales,2022-09-13 The culture of the Nuevomexicanos forged by Spanish speaking residents of New Mexico over the course of many centuries is known for its richness and diversity Expressing New Mexico contributes to a present day renaissance of research on Nuevomexicano culture by assembling eleven original and noteworthy essays They are grouped under two broad headings expressing culture and expressing place Expressing culture derives from the notion of expressive culture referring to fine art productions such as music painting sculpture drawing dance drama and film but it is expanded here to include folklore religious ritual community commemoration ethno-political identity and the pragmatics of ritualized response to the difficult problems of everyday life Intertwined with the concept of expressive culture is that of place in relation to New Mexico itself Place is addressed directly by four of the authors in this anthology and is present in some way and in varying degrees among the rest Place figures prominently in Nuevomexicano character contributors argue They assert that Nuevomexicanos and Nuevomexicanas construct and develop a sense of self that is shaped by the geography and culture of the state as well as by their heritage Many of the articles deal with recent events or with recent reverberations of important historical events which imbues the collection with a sense of immediacy Rituals traditions community commemorations self concepts and historical revisionism all play key roles Contributors include both prominent and emerging scholars united by their interest in and fascination with the distinctiveness of Nuevomexicano culture

Histories of Exhibition Design in the Museum Kate Guy, Hajra Williams, Claire Wintle, 2023-11-30 Histories of Exhibition Design in the Museum Makers Process and Practice offers a new model for understanding exhibition design in museums as a human and material process It presents diverse case studies from around the world from the nineteenth century to the recent past It moves beyond the power of the finished exhibition over both objects and visitors to highlight historic exhibition making as an ongoing task of adaptation experimentation and interaction that involves intellectual creative and technical choices Attentive to hierarchies of ethnicity race class gender sexuality and ableism that have informed exhibition design and its histories the volume highlights the labour involved in making museum exhibitions It presents design as filled with personal and professional demands on the body senses and emotions Contributions from historians anthropologists and exhibition makers focus on histories of identity collaboration and hierarchy behind the scenes of the museum They argue for an emphasis on the everyday objects of museum design and the importance of a diverse range of actors within and beyond the museum from carpenters and label writers to volunteers and local communities Histories of Exhibition Design in the Museum offers scholars students and professionals working across the museum and design sectors insight into how past methods still influence museums today Through a postcolonial and decolonial lens it reveals the lineage of current processes and supports a more informed contemporary practice

A Contested Art Stephanie Lewthwaite, 2015-10-01 When New Mexico became an alternative cultural frontier for avant garde Anglo American writers and artists in the early twentieth century the region was still largely populated by Spanish speaking Hispanos Anglos who came in search of new personal and aesthetic freedoms found inspiration for their modernist ventures in Hispano art forms Yet when these arrivistes elevated a particular model of Spanish colonial art through their preservationist endeavors and the marketplace practicing Hispano artists found themselves working under a new set of patronage relationships and under new aesthetic expectations that tied their art to a static vision of the Spanish colonial past In A Contested Art historian Stephanie Lewthwaite examines the complex Hispano response to these aesthetic dictates and suggests that cultural encounters and appropriation produced not only conflict and loss but also new transformations in Hispano art as the artists experimented with colonial art forms and modernist trends in painting photography and sculpture Drawing on native and non native sources of inspiration they generated alternative lines of modernist innovation and mestizo creativity These lines expressed Hispanos cultural and ethnic affiliations with local Native peoples and with Mexico and presented a vision of New Mexico as a place shaped by the fissures of modernity and the dynamics of cultural conflict and exchange A richly illustrated work of cultural history this first book length treatment explores the important yet neglected role Hispano artists played in shaping the world of modernism in twentieth century New Mexico A Contested Art places Hispano artists at the center of narratives about modernism while bringing Hispano art into dialogue with the cultural experiences of Mexicans Chicanas/os and Native Americans In doing so it rewrites a chapter in the history of both modernism and Hispano art Published in cooperation with The William P Clements Center for Southwest Studies Southern Methodist University
