Life-Destroying Diagrams Eugenie Brinkema, 2022-01-14 In Life Destroying Diagrams Eugenie Brinkema brings the insights of her radical formalism to bear on supremely risky terrain the ethical extremes of horror and love Through close readings of works of film literature and philosophy she explores how diagrams grids charts lists abecedaria toroids tempos patterns colors negative space lengths increments and thresholds attest to formal logics of torture and cruelty violence and finitude friendship and eros debt and care Beginning with a wholesale rethinking of the affect of horror orienting it away from entrenched models of feeling toward impersonal schemes and structures Brinkema moves outward to consider the relation between objects and affects humiliation and metaphysics genre and the general bodily destruction and aesthetic generation geometry and scenography hatred and value love and measurement and ultimately the tensions hazards and speculative promise of formalism itself Replete with etymological meditations performative typography and lyrical digressions Life Destroying Diagrams is at once a model of reading without guarantee and a series of generative experiments in the writing of aesthetic theory The Deaths of Others John Tirman, 2011-05-15 Americans are greatly concerned about the number of our troops killed in battle 33 000 in the Korean War 58 000 in Vietnam 4 500 in Iraq and rightly so But why are we so indifferent often oblivious to the far greater number of casualties suffered by those we fight and those we fight for This is the compelling largely unasked question John Tirman answers in The Deaths of Others Between six and seven million people died in Korea Vietnam and Iraq alone the majority of them civilians And yet Americans devote little attention to these deaths Other countries however do pay attention and Tirman argues that if we want to understand why there is so much anti Americanism around the world the first place to look is how we conduct war We understandably strive to protect our own troops but our rules of engagement with the enemy are another matter From atomic weapons and carpet bombing in World War II to napalm and daisy cutters in Vietnam and beyond our weapons have killed large numbers of civilians and enemy soldiers Americans however are mostly ignorant of these methods believing that American wars are essentially just necessary and good Trenchant and passionate The Deaths of Others forces readers to consider the tragic consequences of American military action not just for Americans but especially for those we fight against Official Report, 1911 Autopsy Pathology: A Manual and Atlas Andrew J Connolly, Walter E. Donaldson, 2025-02-28. Knowing Life examines the limits of dominant knowledge forms that contribute to current practices negatively affecting more than human beings while also exploring alternative approaches to knowing that are capable of reducing harm and maximizing planetary thriving. Specifically, this volume seeks multispecies answers to long-standing questions in Western philosophy: Who or what counts as a knower? What kinds of knowing are valid? Is knowledge a product of mind, body, or something else? Historically, these epistemic questions have been answered in ways that neutralize the knowing and knowledge contribution of and for more than human beings as well as those on the margins of society considered less than human. Consequently, these epistemic assumptions often support the destruction of ecological habitats, industrialization of food animals, widespread use of insect and plant toxins, water and air pollution, climate extinctions, ecological militarism, and the perpetual flow of living beings used for entertainment, research, clothing, companionship, and economic resources. In this book, crosscultural and multidisciplinary contributors, including lesser-known global religious, philosophical accounts, philosophies of plant and insect life, race and disability studies, laboratory epistemology, embodied semiotics, and scholar-artists, challenge and expand these classical concepts through diverse modes of embodied engagement on multispecies.
