Music Divided Danielle Fosler-Lussier, 2007-05-24 Music Divided explores how political pressures affected musical life on both sides of the iron curtain during the early years of the cold war In this groundbreaking study Danielle Fosler Lussier illuminates the pervasive political anxieties of the day through particular attention to artistic music theoretical and propagandistic responses to the music of Hungary's most renowned twentieth century composer Bela Bartok She shows how a tense period of political transition plagued Bartok's music and imperiled those who took a stand on its aesthetic value in the emerging socialist state Her fascinating investigation of Bartok's reception outside of Hungary demonstrates that Western composers too formulated their ideas about musical style under the influence of ever escalating cold war tensions Music Divided surveys Bartok's role in provoking negative reactions to accessible music from Pierre Boulez Hermann Scherchen and Theodor Adorno It considers Bartok's influence on the youthful compositions and thinking of Bruno Maderna and Karlheinz Stockhausen and it outlines Bartok's legacy in the music of the Hungarian composers András Mihály Ferenc Szabó and Endre Szervénszky These details reveal the impact of local and international politics on the selection of music for concert and radio programs on composers' choices about musical style on government radio propaganda about music on the development of socialist realism and on the use of modernism as an instrument of political action Catalog of Copyright Entries Library of Congress.
