Radiobiological Equivalents Of Chemical Pollutants:

Radiobiological Equivalents of Chemical Pollutants International Atomic Energy Agency, 1980 Hazard Assessment Of Ethylene Oxide Leon Golberg, 2018-01-18 Hazard assessment of EO has involved consideration of the chemical composition characteristics and reactivity of this material Teratogenic effects of EO are only seen under extreme conditions that render the result questionable Reproductive effects of minor severity occur only at high levels of exposure Epidemiological and other studies of occupational exposure to EO in men and women have revealed no substantial evidence of potential to produce cancer in the work place Radiobiological Equivalents of Chemical Pollutants International Atomic Energy Agency, 1980 EHP ,1993 Behavioral Effects of Microwave Radiation Absorption ,1985 Toxicology of industrial compounds H. Thomas, 1995-11-21 A large number of chemical compounds are constantly being introduced and produced both to assist and ease modern human life Among these chemicals industrial compounds represent a particular fraction of chemicals which are not intended for use in biological systems but to which humans may be accidentally exposed whether in the workplace by product application or via the environment Industrial chemicals as opposed to pharmaceuticals and agrochemicals are in many cases subjected only to a very basic examination of handling safety and may lack further toxicity testing This implies that essentially nothing is known about their bioavailability metabolism excretion and toxicological properties unless problems arise Covering the investigation of industrial chemicals this book focuses on their individual structure biological fate potential toxicity to mammals and the molecular mechanisms possibly underlying their adverse effects by highlighting the use and significance of experimental toxicology Special emphasis is placed on mechanistic aspects in the safety assessment of industrial compounds in addition to current regulatory and legal considerations

Nuclear Fallout Effects on Agriculture, 1970-March 1986 Charles N. Bebee, 1986 The Use of Human Cells for the Evaluation of Risk from Physical and Chemical Agents Amleto Castellani, 2013-06-29 In this volume are collected 30 papers 9 round table discussions and 11 communications presented at the ASI Course on The use of human cells for the evaluation of risk from physical and chemical agents sponsored by NATO and organized by ENEA The aim of the Course was to present different scientific approaches and technical advices in order to get dose effect relationships which are the basis for risk evaluation The scientific background which is behind this approach was extensively discussed Emphasis has been given to the use of human cells or human data in order to attempt to have a correct and realistic evaluation of the damage in humans There are many criticisms on the use of animal data for human risk evaluation because of differences between species and between strains within the same species differences in metabolism activation processes and DNA repair ability makes uncertain the extrapolation of animal data to humans Also data obtained using specific strains or highly inbred strains in order to reduce the variance are not applicable due to the heterogeneity of the human population connected with individual responses In this respect only the use of human cells enable us to detect the individual variability and to identify sensitive subpopulations that would be at greater risk My appreciation to Pieranita and Alberto Castellani for the assistance during the meeting and to Giuseppe Biondi for his help in some of the editorial work Molecular Dosimetry and Human Cancer Paul L. Skipper, John D. Groopman, 1991-05-21 This book provides readers with a broad view of the field of molecular dosimetry by discussing its origins underlying concepts the wide range of approaches to making the measurements and applications for the results Specific topics include the direct assessment of human carcinogens and assessment of low level risks molecular epidemiology validation of molecular epidemiologic methods quantitative analysis of DNA adducts the application of fluorescence to analysis of genotoxicity exposure control versus risk assessment genetic testing in the workplace and medical screening for carcinogenesis Radiobiological Equivalents of Chemical Pollutants, 1980

Biological Reactive Intermediates IV Charlotte M. Witmer, Robert R. Snyder, David J. Jollow, George F. Kalf, James J. Kocsis, 2013-03-09 The finding that chemicals can be metabolically activated to yield reactive chemical species capable of covalently binding to cellular macromolecules and the concept that these reactions could initiate toxicological and carcinogenic events stimulated a meeting by a small group of toxicologists at the University of Turku in Finland in 1975 Jollow et al 1977 The growing interest in this field of research led to subsequent symposia at the University of Surrey in England in 1980 Snyder et al 1982 and the University of Maryland in the U S A in 1985 Kocsis et al 1986 The Fourth International Symposium on Biological Reactive Intermediates was hosted by the Center for Toxicology at the University of Arizona and convened in Tucson Arizona January 14 17 1990 Over 300 people attended There were 60 platform presentations by invited speakers and 96 volunteer communications in the form of posters were offered These meetings have grown from a small group of scientists working in closely related areas to a major international series of symposia which convene every five years to review and place in context the latest advances in our understanding of the formation fate and consequences of biological reactive intermediates The Organizing Committee Allan H Conney Robert Snyder Co chairman and Charlotte M Witmer Rutgers University Piscataway NJ David J Jollow Co chairman Medical University South Carolina Charleston SC 1 Glenn Sipes Co chairman University of Arizona Tucson AZ James J Kocsis and George F Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 Genetic Toxicology Raymond F.

Fleck, 2013-03-08 To meet the needs of an ever growing world population for food and fiber agriculture uses an arsenal of chemicals to control insects weeds and other pests that compete with man in the agricultural arena In addition to their intended effect many of these biologically active materials affect non target organisms including man himself There is concern about the resulting occupational exposure of those who work in agriculture and the environmental health of those who live in rural areas Unintended side effects from the use of agricultural chemicals are further complicated by the dispersal of these substances well beyond the area of immediate use through food chains atmospheric transport irrigation runoff percolation to and diffusion through ground water sometimes giving rise to public health and environmental problems at a distance from the place of application In addition to toxic substances introduced into the agro ecosystem by man one must be concerned about naturally occurring agents including mfcotoxins plant poisons infective biological agents and the levels of certain heavy metals The formation of toxic substances many of them mutagenic during cooking and other processing of food is a related problem While acute effects are more immediate and somewhat readily discerned chronic and genetic effects tend to be more obscure and sometimes surface in a crisis situation long after substantial damage has been sustained Genotoxicity assays and epidemiological studies play increasing roles in predicting and evaluating long term effects of low level exposure to toxic materials
