Archiving Creole Voices Marl'ene Edwin, 2024-12-20 Archiving Creole Voices Representations of Language and Culture begins with a re reading of selected texts by female Caribbean writers specifically Joan Anim Addo Olive Senior and Merle Collins and proclaims that literary fiction can and does function as a creolised archive Marl'ene Edwin argues that historic marginalisation which has barred Caribbean scholars from entering formal archival spaces has created an alternative discourse Consequently Caribbean writers have chosen the imagined landscapes of literature a new archival space for the Caribbean within which to document and preserve Caribbean cultural traditions Fiction allows for the safeguarding of traditions so how then should Caribbean literature be read The combination of a physical and a virtual archive questions the literary and linguistic interface that such a mingling entails in a preservation of Caribbean culture Edwin argues for an appreciation of orality as performance as well as the reading of texts as creolised archive

108-1 Hearings: Department of The Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations For 2004, Part 7, March 13, 2003, *, 2003 Immigration and Education David Wood Stewart, 1993-01-01 The level of immigration to the United States has never been higher with more than a million immigrants legal and illegal entering every year This new immigration is placing unique demands upon schools colleges vocational training centers and adult education agencies Cities and towns across the nation are straining to educate ever larger numbers of immigrants whose needs are often very different from native born Americans Educating these diverse groups is however difficult and for urban school districts whose resource bases are diminishing grappling with these issues presents a vital social problem David Stewart analyzes these issues in detail illustrating that the root of these difficulties lies in the absence of coordination between the federal government's immigration policy and related education policies at the federal state and local levels Stewart calls the Congressional immigration committees to task for giving insufficient attention to the educational needs of immigrants and urges larger and more timely federal funding for local immigrant education programs
