Titus D. Huxford, 2004-12-09 PREFACE This story centers on a group of kids their families and the invention of an extremely technical device Known as the TIMEDRIVE this multi computer integrated system operates a very unique video camcorder that allows a controlled adjustment of the time variable Incorporated for playback into a state of the art internally contained spherically domed three dimensional theater it actually replays coverage of the space time continuum The system is capable of viewing only the surroundings within range of the zoom lens Consider watching a movie while sitting in the eye of the camera as everything happens all around you in perfect portrayal of realistic life size examples The only catch is that at one time this show was for real Consider the sun boasting a core temperature of almost thirty million degrees well over ninety million miles away Our nearest star spans about three million miles in circumference while containing a spherical volume of nearly a million and a half times that of the earth Composed of many different gases at extremely explosive pressures we cannot begin to conceive the power Try to imagine over 100 billion one megaton nuclear bombs exploding every second still while for who knows how many eons This massive titanic fireball in space emits heat waves or gamma rays of incomprehensible supply while in the form of electromagnetic energy Theyre always present or constant and carry light energy which Einstein called quantum photons The atmosphere focuses this heat energy upon the earths surface much like a magnifying glass Our resulting weather factor known as the quantum pinpoint depends on the earth and how its seasonally tilted winter spring etc Summertime brings about an intense concentration of focal alignment between atmosphere and surface conditions Most people prefer spring and fall as the earth begins nearing or slipping away from pinpoint focus providing very comfortable conditions Factors such as altitude longitude latitude distance from the equator water supplies soil types and many other environmental qualities determine atmospheric reactions in our individual regional global locality The mountains are at a higher altitude never allowing them to fully focus thus explaining the snow covered tops Plants and animals need the suns heat or light energy in order to survive If the human eye could focus on these heat waves in infrared like a cat we would be able to see at night The suns core energy is released in the form of gamma radiation as unfathomable quantities of gaseous matter interact in the form of nuclear fusion In this process a pair of hydrogen nuclei combined into a single helium nucleus undergo countless other changes and the result radiates throughout the entire solar system The heat energy is absorbed chemically transformed by living organisms then reflected and therefore bounced off the earths surface The light photons reflect in your eye as the dark pupil absorbs them In only microseconds a signal is sent to the brain enabling sight Think about wearing a black T shirt on a hot summer day How about the dashboard of your car when left sitting in the afternoon sun The darker objects absorb the light or quantum photons while in a natural conductional transfer of chemical differences in potential energy This is very much like unto the gravity of a mass in comparison to a spherical celestial body in motion However we wont get into that here Where do you think the sunlight goes when its reflected off the earth's surface. It's simply absorbed into space as the cold darkness attracts the light or heat chemical energy. Einstein said energy could not be destroyed only changed into another form. The universe is made of many strange abnormalities which we don't. The American Ecclesiastical Review Herman Joseph Heuser, 1946 The Rhetorical Leadership of Fulton J. Sheen, Norman Vincent Peale, and Billy Graham in the Age of Extremes Timothy H. Sherwood, 2013-08-15

 Fulton J. Sheen, Norman Vincent Peale, and Billy Graham were America's most popular religious leaders during the mid-twentieth century period known as the golden years of the Age of Extremes. It was part of an era that encompassed polemic contrasts of good and evil on the world stage in political philosophies and international relations. The 1950s and early 1960s in particular were years of high anxiety, competing ideologies, and hero-villain mania in America. Sheen was the voice of reason who spoke against those conflicting ideologies which were hostile to religious faith and democracy. Peale preached the gospel of reassurance, self-assurance, and success despite ominous global threats, and Graham was the heroic model of faith whose message of conversion provided Americans an identity and direction opposite to atheistic communism. This study looks at how and why their rhetorical leadership both separately and together contributed to the climate of an extreme era and influenced a national religious revival. Catalogue of Copyright Entries Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1946 Forming Families, Forming Saints Fr. Carter Griffin, 2024-10-01
 How do we raise children to be saints? How do we become saints? From those two questions we draw our mission. As parents, our primary purpose is to raise children fit for eternal life while we pursue the same for ourselves. If we succeed, it will be our greatest success. If we fail, there is no greater failure imaginable. Fr. Carter Griffin treats the family mission with the gravity it demands. He considers it a work of deep formation as crucial and as intentional as the formation of future priests. In practical chapters, Fr. Griffin, a seminary rector, adapts the four pillars of priestly formation and applies them to family life. He highlights the key virtues that are essential for our children's human, intellectual, spiritual, and apostolic growth. These pages are rich with testimonies from Catholic parents, examples from the lives of the saints, and other helpful resources to address specific challenges. Forming Families, Forming Saints offers a framework for children and parents alike to reach the heights of humanity and the heights of holiness.
