Europe's Green Revolution and Others Since Jonathan Harwood, 2012-05-04 How best to foster agricultural development in the Third World has long been a subject of debate and from a European perspective the persistent failure to design peasant friendly technology is puzzling From the late 19th century for example various western European countries also underwent green revolutions in which systematic attempts were made to promote the adoption of technological innovation by peasant farmers This book focuses on the development of public sector plant breeding in Germany from the late nineteenth century through its fate under National Socialism Harwood uses this historical case study in order to argue that peasant friendly research has an important role to play in future Green Revolutions

Ideas and Economic Crises in Britain from Attlee to Blair (1945-2005) Matthias Matthijs, 2012-08-21 During the period from 1945 to 2005 Britain underwent two deep seated institutional transformations when political elites successfully challenged the prevailing wisdom on how to govern the economy Attlee and Thatcher were able to effectively implement most of their political platforms During this period there were also two opportunities to challenge existing institutional arrangements Heath s U turn in 1972 signalled his failure to implement the radical agenda promised upon election in 1970 whilst Tony Blair s New Labour similarly failed to instigate a major break with the Thatcherite settlement Rather than simply retell the story of British economic policymaking since World War II this book offers a theoretically informed version of events which draws upon the literatures on institutional path dependence economic constructivism and political economy to explain this puzzle It will be of great interest to both researchers and postgraduates with an interest in British economic history and the fields of political economy and economic crisis more widely

The History of Migration in Europe Francesca Fauri, 2014-10-03 The History of Migration in Europe belies several myths by arguing for example that immobility has not been the normal condition of people before the modern era Migration far from being an income maximizing choice taken by lone individuals is often a household strategy and local wages benefit from migration This book shows how successes arise when governments liberalize and accompany the international movements of people with appropriate legislation while failures take place when the legislation enacted is insufficient belated or ill shaped Part I of this book addresses mainly methodological issues Past and present migration is basically defined as a cross cultural movement cultural boundaries need prolonged residence and active integrationist policies to allow cross fertilization of cultures among migrants and non migrants Part II collects chapters that examine the role of public bodies with reference to migratory movements depicting a series of successes and failures in the migration policies through examples drawn from the European Union or single countries Part III deals with challenges immigrants face once they have settled in their new countries Do immigrants seek integration in their host culture Through which channels is such integration achieved and what roles are played by citizenship and political participation What is the identity of migrants and their children born in the host countries This text s originality stems from the fact that it explains the complex nature of migratory movements by incorporating a variety of perspectives and using a multi disciplinary approach including economic political and sociological contributions

The Political Economy of Mercantilism Lars Magnusson, 2015-06-12 Since the days of Adam Smith Mercantilism has been a hotly debated issue Condemned at the end of the 18th century as a false system of economic thinking and political practice it has returned paradoxically to the forefront in regard to issues such as the creation of economic growth in developing countries This concept is often used in order to depict economic thinking and economic policy in early modern Europe its meaning and content has been highly debated for over two hundred years Following on from his 1994 volume Mercantilism The Shaping of an Economic Language this new book from Lars Magnusson presents a more synthetic interpretation of Mercantilism not only as a theoretical system but also as a system of political economy This book incorporates samples of material from the 1994 publication alongside new material ordered in a new set of chapters and up date discussions on mercantilism up to the present day Tracing the development of a particular political economy of Mercantilism in a period of nascent state making in Western and Continental Europe from the 16th to the 18th century the book describes how European rulers regarded foreign trade and industrialisation as a means to achieve power and influence amidst international competition over trades and markets Returning to debates concerning whether Mercantilism was a system of power or of wealth Magnusson argues that it is in fact was both and that contemporaries almost without exception saw these goals as interconnected He also emphasises that Mercantilism was an all European issue in a time of trade wars and the struggle for international power and recognition In examining these issues this book offers an unrivalled modern synthesis of Mercantilist ideas and practices
