Maps, Myths, and Men Kirsten A. Seaver, 2004 The Vinland Map first surfaced on the antiquarian market in 1957 and the map's authenticity has been hotly debated ever since in controversies ranging from the anomalous composition of the ink and the map's lack of provenance to a plethora of historical and cartographical riddles Maps Myths and Men is the first work to address the full range of this debate Focusing closely on what the map in fact shows the book contains a critique of the 1965 work The Vinland Map and the Tartar Relation scrutinizes the marketing strategies used in 1957 and covers many aspects of the map that demonstrate it is a modern fake such as literary evidence and several scientific ink analyses performed between 1967 and 2002 The author explains a number of the riddles and provides evidence for both the identity of the mapmaker and the source of the parchment used and she applies current knowledge of medieval Norse culture and exploration to counter widespread misinformation about Norse voyages to North America and about the Norse world picture

Confronting the Perpetrators Marilyn Henry, 2007 In 1951 an ad hoc consortium of Jewish organizations received together with the State of Israel an invitation to negotiate with West Germany for moral and material amends for Nazi era damages The consortium became the Conference on Jewish Material Claims against Germany known as the Claims Conference Over a half century the Conference's vigorous pursuit of claims against Germany led to compensation for hundreds of thousands of victims of Nazism The activities of the Conference expanded from support of individual victims to allocations to special goals including support for Righteous Gentiles commemoration of the Holocaust study and research etc Dwells on problems faced by the Conference in dealing with the governments of East Germany and Austria which before the 1990s did not recognize their countries as successors of the Nazi state as well as with big companies in West Germany which did not recognize their responsibility for their part in the Nazi program of annihilation through work and thus did not want to compensate their former workers Ottoman Empire and
