Congress. House. Committee on Energy and Commerce. Subcommittee on Health and the Environment,1983      Shopping Our Way to Safety Andrew Szasz,2007-11-15 Not long ago people did not worry about the food they ate They did not worry about the water they drank or the air they breathed It never occurred to them that eating drinking water satisfying basic mundane bodily needs might be a dangerous thing to do Parents thought it was good for their kids to go outside get some sun That s all changed now from the Introduction Many Americans today rightly fear that they are constantly exposed to dangerous toxins in their immediate environment tap water is contaminated with chemicals foods contain pesticide residues hormones and antibiotics even the air we breathe outside and indoors carries invisible poisons Yet we have responded not by pushing for governmental regulation but instead by shopping What accounts for this swift and dramatic response And what are its unintended consequences Andrew Szasz examines this phenomenon in Shopping Our Way to Safety Within a couple of decades he reveals bottled water and water filters organic food green household cleaners and personal hygiene products and natural bedding and clothing have gone from being marginal niche commodities to becoming mass consumer items Szasz sees these fatalistic individual responses to collective environmental threats as an inverted form of quarantine aiming to shut the healthy individual in and the threatening world out Sharply critiquing these products effectiveness as well as the unforeseen political consequences of relying on them to keep us safe from harm Szasz argues that when consumers believe that they are indeed buying a defense from environmental hazards they feel less urgency to actually do something to fix them To achieve real protection real security he concludes we must give up the illusion of individual solutions and together seek substantive reform Andrew Szasz is professor and chair of the department of sociology at the University of California at Santa Cruz and author of the award winning EcoPopulism Minnesota 1994      Guidelines to Safe Drinking Nicholas A. Drinking in Context Gerry Stimson, Marcus Grant, Marie Choquet, Preston Garrison, 2013-05-13 Drinking beverage alcohol is a widespread source of individual and social pleasure in most countries around the world Yet some drinking patterns can lead to serious physical mental and social harms Drinking in Context is intended to complement existing volumes dealing with international alcohol policy by focusing on three main themes drinking patterns targeted interventions and partnership development An understanding that patterns of drinking are important predictors of outcomes has led to a growing realization that alcohol policies and prevention strategies need to focus on excessive or irresponsible drinking As a result there has been a shift towards interventions that address the targeted reduction of harm These approaches recognize socio cultural differences and avoid trying to impose a one size fits all solution In this context multi stakeholder partnerships offer an excellent opportunity to promote the complex mix of measures required by each society Shared responsibilities lead to shared solutions
