Companion Species Mathilde van Dijk, 2024-11-28 This book explores the connection between saints and animals and how the power over animals has been a characteristic of saints from their beginnings in the Early Church The connection between saints and humans is examined with the saint as a human rising beyond humanity touching the divine and the non human animal as a creature which is connected to and yet removed from humanity and which may have a connection to the sacred itself This volume transcends traditional religious boundaries by including Christian saints as well as similar figures in Islam and Norse religions It operates on the cusp of two exciting and innovative fields hagiographic and animal studies It shows the complexities of human animal interaction and the sacred authorities clashing with experiential knowledge metaphorical animals as opposed to real animals ranging from helpers or opponents of saints disguises of demons or identity markers of a human community Companion Species will be of value to scholars and students interested in medieval history Europe and religion as well as social and cultural history

Origins of Beowulf Richard North, 2007-02-08 This book suggests that the Old English epic Beowulf was composed in the winter of 826-7 as a requiem for King Beornwulf of Mercia on behalf of Wiglaf the ealdorman who succeeded him. The place of composition is given as the minster of Breedon on the Hill in Leicestershire now Derbyshire and the poet is named as the abbot Eanmund. As well as pinpointing the poem's place and date of composition, Richard North raises some old questions relating to the poet's influences from Vergil and from living Danes. Norse analogues are discussed in order to identify how the poet changed his heroic sources while four episodes from Beowulf are shown to be reworked from passages in Vergil's Aeneid. One chapter assesses how the poem's Latin sources might correspond with what is known of Breedon's now lost library while another seeks to explain Danish mythology in Beowulf by arguing that Breedon hosted a meeting with Danish Vikings in 809. This fascinating and challenging new study combines careful detective work with meticulous literary analysis to form a case that no future investigation will be able to ignore.

Ballads of the North, Medieval to Modern Sandra Ballif Straubhaar,Richard Firth Green,2019-04-15 This volume is intended as a belated but heartfelt thank you and Gedenkschrift to the late Larry Syndergaard 1936 2015 long time professor of English at Western Michigan University and Fellow of the Kommission f r Volksdichtung International Ballad Commission Larry s contributions down the decades to ballad studies particularly Scandinavian and Anglophone included dozens of papers and articles as well as his supremely useful book English Translations of the Scandinavian Medieval Ballads. As David Atkinson and Thomas A McKean of the Kommission have written May 2015 Larry was a sound scholar with a penetrating mind which he used to support encourage and befriend others rather than show off his own knowledge. He will be remembered for his contributions to international balladry especially for providing a bridge between the English and Scandinavian language ballads. Larry's particular fascination with the vernacular ballads of the northern medieval world are reflected in this collection. Topics here range from plot elements such as demonic whales, otherworldly antagonists and mer people to thematic issues of genre, religion and sexual mores. As a tribute to the global influence of Larry's scholarship and the broad academic interest in medieval ballads, the essays in this volume were contributed by twelve international scholars of narrative song based in Europe, North America and Australia.
