

The background is a detailed stained glass window. On the left, St. Jude is depicted with a halo, wearing a red and gold robe, and holding a scroll. On the right, St. Peter is shown with a long white beard, a halo, and a green robe, with his hands clasped in prayer. The window is divided by lead lines and features ornate golden capitals and floral motifs in the background.

Heroes, Saints, and Ordinary Morality Andrew Michael Flescher,2003-11-25 Most of us are content to see ourselves as ordinary people unique in ways talented in others but still among the ranks of ordinary mortals Andrew Flescher probes our contented state by asking important questions How should ordinary people respond when others need our help whether the situation is a crisis or something less Do we have a responsibility an obligation to go that extra mile to act above and beyond the call of duty Or should we leave the braver responses to those who are somehow different than we are better somehow heroes or saints Traditional approaches to ethics have suggested there is a sharp distinction between ordinary people and those called heroes and saints between duties and acts of supererogation going beyond the expected Flescher seeks to undo these standard dichotomies by looking at the lives and actions of certain historical figures Holocaust rescuers Martin Luther King Jr Dorothy Day among others who appear to be extraordinary but were in fact ordinary people Heroes Saints and Ordinary Morality shifts the way we regard ourselves in relationship to those we admire from afar it asks us not only to admire but to emulate as well further it challenges us to actively seek the acquisition of virtue as seen in the lives of heroes and saints to learn from them a dynamic aspect of ethical behavior that goes beyond the mere avoidance of wrongdoing Andrew Flescher sets a stage where we need to think and act calling us to lead lives of self examination even if that should sometimes provoke discomfort He asks that we strive to emulate those we admire and therefore allow ourselves to grow morally and spiritually It is then that the individual develops a deeper altruistic sense of self a state that allows us to respond as the heroes of our own lives and therefore in the lives of others when times and circumstance demand that of us
