

Salmon-Fishing

The days shorten, the south blows wide for showers now,
The south wind shouts to the rivers,
The rivers open their mouths and the salt salmon
Race up into the freshet.

In Christmas month against the smoulder and menace
Of a long angry sundown,
Red ash of the dark solstice, you see the anglers,
Pitiful, cruel, primeval,
Like the priests of the people that built Stonehenge,

Dark silent forms, performing Remote solemnities in the red shallows
Of the river's mouth at the year's turn,
Drawing landward their live bullion, the bloody mouths
And scales full of the sunset
Twitch on the rocks, no more to wander at will
The wild Pacific pasture nor wanton and spawning Race up into fresh water.

Mosteller, 2016-05-13 Teresa Mosteller has been writing poetry since childhood As a youth she found the practice to be therapeutic and would write whenever the spirit moved her The results of her creative efforts always managed to lift her spirits However as life unfolded her poems and stories took a back seat One night her newlywed husband Gordy the chef in their household fixed her a marvelous salmon dinner This simple delicious meal reawakened the poets heart and soon There Used to Be a Fish Called Salmon came to fruition Like her salmon tale each poem and story in this book was inspired by an event a memory or a dream too vivid to forget This collection is a Valentine to Teresas caring family and dear friends She writes of her dreams disappointments memories of the past and hopes for the future Like an appealing smorgasbord each selection may be enjoyed on its own or in combination with others Whether its a delicious dish or a tantalizing tale Teresa believes that joy becomes the main ingredient when love is in the recipe      *Poems, ballads, and ditties [by T. Starbuck, 2016-07-11 Scott T Starbuck's Lost Salmon a collection of seventy-nine short poems also reads like one long poem given the ways in which it accumulates toward a single clear-eyed vision or meditation on time and memory each moment recorded enacts that lovely sad mix of elegy and celebration Jack Driscoll author of Fishing the Backwash     The Salmon Carol Ann Duffy Carol Ann Duffy, 2000     Salmon Jessie Lendennie, 2007     The Poetry of Raymond Carver Sandra Lee Kleppe, 2016-02-24 Best known as one of the great short story writers of the twentieth century Raymond Carver also published several volumes of poetry and considered himself as much a poet as a fiction writer Sandra Lee Kleppe combines comparative analysis with an in-depth examination of Carver's poems making a case for the quality of Carver's poetic output and showing the central role Carver's pursuit of poetry played in his career as a writer Carver constructed his own organic literary system of autopoetics a concept connected to a paradigm shift in our understanding of the inter-relatedness of biological and cultural systems This idea is seen as informing Carver's entire production and a distinguishing feature of Kleppe's book is its contextualization of Carver's poetry within the complex literary and scientific systems that influenced his development as a writer Kleppe addresses the common themes and intertextual links between Carver's poetry and short story careers situates Carver's poetry within the love poem tradition explores the connections between neurology and poetic memories and examines Carver's use of the elegy genre within the context of his terminal illness. Tellingly, Carver's poetry, which has aroused slight interest among literary scholars, is frequently taught to medical students. This testimony to the interdisciplinary implications of Carver's work suggests the appropriateness of Kleppe's culminating discussion of Carver's work as a bridge between the fields of literature and medicine.

Nature, Environment and Poetry Susanna Lidström, 2015-06-19. The environmental challenges facing humanity in the twenty-first century are not only acute and grave; they are also unprecedented in kind, complexity, and scope. Nonetheless, or therefore, the political response to problems such as climate change, biodiversity loss, and widespread pollution continues to fall short. To address these challenges, it seems clear that we need new ways of thinking about the relationship between humans and nature, local and global, and past, present, and future. One place to look for such new ideas is in poetry designed to contain multiple levels of meaning, at once challenge the imagination, and evoke responses that are based on something more than scientific consensus and rationale. This ecocritical book traces the environmental sensibilities of two Anglophone poets: Nobel Prize winner Seamus Heaney (1939–2013) and British Poet Laureate Ted Hughes (1930–1998). Drawing on recent and multifarious developments in ecocritical theory, it examines how Hughes's and Heaney's respective poetics interact with late twentieth-century developments in environmental thought, focusing in particular on ideas about ecology and environment in relation to religion, time, technology, colonialism, semiotics, and globalisation. This book is aimed at students of literature and environment, the relationship between poetry and environmental humanities, and the poetry of Ted Hughes or Seamus Heaney.
