Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine if there were differences in the prevalence of dental caries between children who had been exposed to fluoride varnish and those who had not. A total of 600 children aged 5-7 years were examined by dentists at a community health center. The results showed that the prevalence of dental caries was significantly lower in the group that had received fluoride varnish than in the control group.

Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically fit individuals. The study was conducted in a laboratory setting. The subjects were 12 females, aged 20-30, who were randomly assigned to two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The control group performed a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically fit individuals. The experimental group performed a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically fit individuals. The results of the study showed that the experimental group had a significantly higher heart rate and oxygen consumption than the control group. The results also showed that the experimental group had a significantly higher energy expenditure than the control group. The results of the study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically fit individuals can improve cardiovascular fitness and energy expenditure.
