Resumen

Desde la perspectiva del institucionalismo histórico la obra de Collier y Collier representa un paradigma de estudio comparativo en el campo de la ciencia política y de la propia historia. Los autores estudian el surgimiento de las distintas formas de control y movilización de la clase obrera a través del Estado y de los partidos y buscan explicar las distintas trayectorias y los cambios de la arena política en cada uno de los países seleccionados. El presente artículo busca dar a conocer los rasgos más sobresalientes de esta teoría, la aplicación al caso de Colombia, las imprecisiones históricas y problemas del método.

The Structure of Political Competition in Western Europe Zolt Enyedi, Kevin Deegan-Krause, 2013-09-13 Is European party politics hovering above society Why do voters pick one party over others Is it a question of class Of religion Of attitudes about taxes or immigration or global warming Or is it something else entirely The Structure of Political Competition in Western Europe takes a detailed look at the ways in which Western Europe's party systems are anchored in social and ideological structures The book's first section focuses on the role of social structures particularly education class and religion and analyzes the complex interplay among these factors The second section addresses the ways that the sociological structures such as class and religion interact with voters values The third section examines the way that these structures and values shape the space of political competition among parties The conclusion integrates the findings of the empirical articles putting them into broader comparative perspective discussing whether relatively predictable structures have been overwhelmed by media driven spectacles political personalities and focus on short term economic performance This volume will appeal to scholars and graduate students in Europe and those from North America Asia and other regions who study European politics political parties cleavages and political behaviour This book was published as a special issue of West European Politics

Wealth, Power, and Authoritarian Institutions Michaela Collord, 2024-07-16 Through an analysis of the recent political history of Tanzania and Uganda Wealth Power and Authoritarian Institutions offers a novel explanation of why authoritarian parties and legislatures vary in strength and why this variation matters Michaela Collord elaborates a view of authoritarian political institutions as both reflecting and magnifying elite power dynamics While there are many sources of elite power the book centres on material power It outlines how diverse trajectories of state led capitalist development engender differing patterns of wealth accumulation and elite contestation across regimes These differences in turn influence institutional landscapes Where accumulation is more closely controlled by state and party leaders as was true in Tanzania until economic liberalization in the 1980s rival factions remain subdued Ruling parties can then consolidate relatively strong institutional structures and parliament remains marginal Conversely where a class of private wealth accumulators expands as occurred in Tanzania after the 1980s and in Uganda after the National Resistance Movement took power in 1986 rival factions can more easily form simultaneously eroding party institutions and encouraging greater legislative strength Collord uses this analysis to reassess the significance of a stronger legislature She considers its influence on distributive politics both regressive and progressive She also considers its relation to democratization particularly in a context of broader liberalizing reforms The book ultimately encourages a closer examination of how would be democratic institutions interact with an underlying power distribution shaping in whose interests they operate Oxford Studies in African Politics and International Relations is a series for scholars and students working on African politics and International Relations and related disciplines Volumes concentrate on contemporary developments in African political science political economy and International Relations such as electoral politics democratization decentralization gender and political representation the political impact of natural resources the dynamics and consequences of conflict comparative political thought and the nature of the continent s engagement with the East and West Comparative and mixed methods work is particularly encouraged Case studies are welcomed but should demonstrate the broader theoretical and empirical implications of the study and its wider relevance to contemporary debates The focus of the series is on sub Saharan Africa although proposals that explain how the region engages with North Africa and other parts of the world are of interest General Editors Nic Cheeseman Peace Medie and Ricardo Soares de Oliveira

Territorial Development in Latin America Diana Morales, Laura Sariago-Kluge, Tiago Teixeira, 2025-04-23 This book explores one of the most pressing issues of our time development a concern that has persisted from the past century through to today and is increasingly intertwined with challenges related to environmental sustainability and growing inequalities Despite numerous academic and policy interventions development remains an elusive goal Hence this book explains how conceptualisations alternative to economic growth have evolved in Latin American geographical literature and shows their practical applications in various contexts The book argues for a broader more inclusive approach to development territorial development that integrates ecological cultural economic and social concerns By focusing on territorial development seen from a theoretical perspective but also applied through case studies the book underscores the importance of understanding the historical and power dynamics that influence how territories are shaped for whom and by whom The book is divided into two parts The first part provides a theoretical and historical background on development and territory in Latin America presenting critical methodological perspectives for aligning academic research with community and environmental wellbeing The second part consists of case studies that illustrate how different understandings of territory influence development agendas in diverse settings across the region Scholars researchers and post graduate students will find this an invaluable resource as will policymakers and organizations interested in developmental practices Soundbitten Sarah Sobieraj,2011-06-13 There is an elaborate and often invisible carnival that emerges alongside presidential campaigns as innumerable activist groups attempt to press their issues into mainstream political discourse Sarah Sobieraj s fascinating ethnographic portrait of fifty diverse organizations over the course of two campaign cycles reveals that while most activist groups equate political success with media success and channel their energies accordingly their efforts fail to generate news coverage and come with deleterious consequences Sobieraj shows that activists impact on public political debates is minimal and carefully unravels the ways in which their all consuming media work and unrelenting public relations approach undermine their ability to communicate with pedestrians comes at the expense of other political activities and perhaps most perniciously damages the groups themselves Weaving together fieldwork news analysis and in depth interviews with activists and journalists Soundbitten illuminates the relationship between news and activist organizations This captivating portrait of activism in the United States lays bare the challenges faced by outsiders struggling to be heard in a mass media dominated public sphere that proves exclusionary and shows that media centrism is not only ineffective but also damaging to group life Soundbitten reveals why media centered activism so often fails what activist groups lose in the process and why we should all be concerned The

Sulaiman, 2025-06-16 Despite accounting for 49.47% of the Nigerian population progress towards gender equity and women's empowerment in Nigeria has remained low in contrast to the Sustainable Development Goals SDG Target 5.5 In light of this NILDS under the leadership of Prof Abubakar O Sulaiman and with support from the management of the National Assembly is creating a platform for intellectual discourse and engagements on women socio economic and political empowerment The NILDS International Conference on Women in Governance provided a platform for experts government officials policymakers and other relevant stakeholder across Africa to discuss the challenges that women face in political participation and governance in Nigeria and Africa at large This ultimately led to this evidence based scientific reader that contributes to the corpus of literature in Africa     Political Writing: A Guide to the Essentials Adam Garfinkle, David Brooks, 2014-12-18 Writing well and persuasively is not only a discipline that can be learned it is one deeply rooted in the classical arts of rhetoric and polemic This book introduces the essential skills rules and steps for producing effective political prose appropriate to many contexts from the editorial the op ed and the polemical essay to others both weighty and seemingly slight     Anatomy of Political Choice ARTUR VICTORIA, 2025-06-08 The Anatomy of Political Choice investigates the fascinating and often frustrating world of political decision making exploring the mechanisms through which laws policies and the allocation of resources are determined We examine the various actors involved in the process from elected officials and bureaucrats to lobbyists and the general public and analyse how their interactions shape the final outcomes We address the dynamics of negotiation compromise and conflict resolution recognising both the successes and failures of different approaches This analysis goes beyond the mechanics of decision making exploring the underlying power dynamics ideological differences and public opinion that influence decisions

A Social History of Western Political Thought Ellen Meiksins Wood, 2022-08-30 A sweeping and nuanced materialist history of Western political thought In this groundbreaking work Ellen Meiksins Wood rewrites the history of political theory from Plato to Rousseau Treating canonical thinkers as passionately engaged human beings Wood examines their ideas not simply in the context of political languages but as creative responses to the social relations and conflicts of their time and place She identifies a distinctive relation between property and state in Western history and shows how the canon while largely the work of members or clients of dominant classes was shaped by complex interactions among proprietors labourers and states Western political theory Wood argues owes much of its vigour and also many ambiguities to these complex and often contradictory relations In the first volume she traces the development of the Western tradition from classical antiquity through to the Middle Ages in the perspective of social history a significant departure not only from the standard abstract history of ideas but also from other contextual methods From the Ancient Greek polis of Plato Aristotle Aeschylus and Sophocles through the Roman Republic of Cicero and the Empire of St Paul and St Augustine to the medieval world of Averroes Thomas Aquinas and William of Ockham Wood offers a rich dynamic exploration of thinkers and ideas that have indelibly stamped our modern world In the second volume Wood addresses the formation of the modern state the rise of capitalism the Renaissance and Reformation the scientific revolution and the Age of Enlightenment which have all been attributed to the early modern period Nearly everything about its history remains controversial but one thing is certain it left a rich and provocative legacy of political ideas unmatched in Western history The concepts of liberty equality property human rights and revolution born in those turbulent centuries continue to shape and to limit political discourse today Assessing the work and background of figures such as Machiavelli Luther Calvin Spinoza the Levellers Hobbes Locke and Rousseau Ellen Wood vividly explores the ideas of the canonical thinkers not as philosophical abstractions but as passionately engaged responses to the social conflicts of their day

Political Psychology Prof. Dr. Bilal Semih Bozdemir, While fear motivates immediate action in response to specific threats anxiety often manifests as a chronic concern that drives individuals to seek answers and stability through political engagement High levels of anxiety can lead to increased information seeking behavior prompting individuals to research candidates and policies in search of assurance Anxious individuals may gravitate towards political figures who embody calmness or assertiveness interpreting such traits as signals of competence and reliability As a result during election cycles characterized by economic instability or social upheaval people may prioritize candidates who convey certainty and effective management capabilities over those who communicate ambitious but unrealistic promises Intriguingly anxiety can produce conflicting effects on political decision making While it compels individuals to become more informed it can also lead to avoidance behavior when faced with overwhelming information Voters may disengage from the political process or gravitate towards simplistic narratives or authoritarian candidates who promise to alleviate their anxiety Hence understanding the paradoxical nature of anxiety is critical for dissecting its influence on political behavior
