Nursing Support For Families Of Dying Patients:

Nursing Support for Families of Dying Patients Rosemary McIntyre, 2001-11-28 When a patient has an advanced disease considerable demands are placed on the whole family Whilst coping with their own profound emotions close relatives commonly have to support their loved ones through a range of treatments as the disease progresses through stages of remission and recurrence until finally a shift to a palliative mode of treatment must be faced In such situations family roles and relationships are likely to be disrupted and family members coping resources can be stretched to the limit It is clear from this that by the time the terminal stage of the patient's illness is reached the family may have travelled a long and difficult road and close relatives are likely to be emotionally vulnerable and in need of support This study explores the needs of relatives of terminally ill patients and the concerns of nurses who provide care in the hospital The research data is used to design implement and evaluate clinical standards for improved family support

Originally published in 2001 the Textbook of Palliative Nursing has become the standard text for the field of hospice and palliative care nursing. In this new edition the authors and editors have updated each chapter to ensure that the content is evidence based and current references are included. They also have retained the important focus on case studies throughout the text and practical clinically relevant tables, figures and other resources. Like the previous edition this text has an introductory section of the general principles of palliative care followed by a comprehensive section on symptom assessment and management encompassing twenty one different symptoms. Other key sections include psychosocial support and spiritual care providing holistic perspective on care of patients facing advanced disease. The text also includes an innovative section on special populations addressing those most in need of palliative care. The textbook is a useful resource for all nurses with the excellent section on end of life care across settings. In this new edition the pediatric palliative care section has been greatly expanded and includes seven separate chapters on pediatric care. It includes a section on special issues addressing topics such as ethical considerations, nursing research and public policy perspectives and concludes with a section presenting models of excellence including six international models. This edition also offers a narrative on dying based on a spouse's perspective. The text includes an appendix with an extensive list of resources for nurses in the field.
